Jett Discusses QTN "Fiasco"

Faltering Gay Network Kept Queer Edge Host "Out of the Loop"

By Paul E. Pratt

Being "kept in the dark" doesn't feel good, just ask Jack E. Jett. The talk show host says it became "painfully obvious" while talking with journalists from The Advocate exactly how little he knew about the inner workings of Q Television Network, the home of Jett's popular daytime series The Queer Edge.

"In the middle of our interview, I really became aware they knew more than I do on some subjects," Jett admits. "It was rather baffling. I feel like I was kept out of the loop to some degree. That's not the best way to feel."

A feature in the magazine's March 28, 2006 issue reveals significant turmoil within the up-start queer premium channel. The piece claims the network's competition with here! TV and Logo for views has led to a "financial fiasco." Mixing quotes from a significant number of QTN employees and a variety of well-known facts, The Advocate paints a less-than-rosy picture of the gay network.

In January, QTN announced the high-profile acquisition of Jett's Queer Edge co-host, comedienne Sandra Bernhardt. Less than a month later, Jett says network brass called a meeting to announce a broadcast hiatus. Official statements from the company contend QTN planned to use the time off to strengthen daytime programming in preparation for upcoming Gay Games broadcasts. According to Jett, the reason given insiders was "something about an investor."

To compound matters, founder Frank Olsen stepped down as CEO of QTN parent company Triangle Multi-Media Limited in March. Lloyd Fan was named Chief Executive soon after. With all the shifts, starts and stops, The Advocate article goes so far as to suggest the fledgling gay network is "falling apart." Jokes Jett: "That's an uplifting headline, isn't it?"

While the comedian makes light of the article, Jett realizes the network's current situation is far from a laughing matter. Hindsight being 20/20, Jett says he now fights the urge to "beat myself up."

"I keep asking myself how much of this I should have known," he shares. "Not only did I have my head buried in the sand, it was a matter of seeing what I wanted and ignoring the rest."

One member of senior management, who was present at the network's big ticket summer launch party in San Francisco, says things began to go awry within the company last fall. Though QTN's Web site denotes this individual parted ways with the network amicably, the former bigwig says that is far from the truth. He contends he was forced out by executives. On conditions of anonymity, the source reveals: "Things there are really fucked up."

Jett seemed surprised to hear of such comments dating back to Fall 2005. He reveals his first real indication something was amiss at QTN popped up—if he had been willing to recognize it—in January 2006.

On a trip to cover a Barenaked Ladies concert in San Diego, Jett says the network was supposed to pay $500 for access to the arena. Just days before the shoot, the bill still wasn't paid. "Nobody could figure out who to have sign the cashier's check," Jett recalls. "That was my first clue something bad was going on."

For Jett this realization after-the-fact is particularly frustrating. Especially since the upheaval at QTN is hitting the host and many others involved where it hurts most: in the pocketbook.

"I talked to my partner and found out I

Pride in the Heart of Las Vegas

By Jon Afalla

Change is almost always inevitable. It's one of those absolutes in life that we know will come eventually and cannot avoid: taxes, death, yet another WB drama. We can expect a change in our Gay Pride this year, as well. No, we won't have to attend in the nude—however interesting and colorful that may be—or have some weird theme like "Retro Pride." Just a change in location.

For the last two years, Las Vegas Gay Pride has been held at the All American Sports Park. Before that, it was at Sunset Park. This year, our Pride will be held for the first time at the Clark County Amphitheater (500 S. Grand Central Parkway). Consequently, the theme of this year's Pride is Pride in the Heart of Las Vegas.

The Pride events kick off Saturday, May 6 at The Center (953 E. Sahara Ste. B31) with a Colors of Pride Arts Show from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Show off that nude self-portrait or throw together a bunch of different colors on a canvas and call it an abstract. Non-Center and Center members may enter submissions into the art show May 1 to May 5 for $50 and $25, respectively, between 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. No submissions will be accepted the day of the event. Applications can be picked up at The Center. Prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place.

A women's picnic sponsored by Betty's Outrageous Adventures will be held Sunday, May 7 from noon to 5 p.m. at Mountain Crest Park (4701 N. Durango Lane at Lone Mountain). Also, Hamburger Mary's is hosting for the first time Las Vegas Pride Idol, a singing competition in which the finalist will get to perform on the main stage at the Pride festival. The competition will take place from 9 p.m. to midnight at 4503 Paradise Road.

The growing Pride Family Bingo moves to a brand-new venue this year: the Renaissance Las Vegas Hotel. The event will take place Tuesday, May 9 from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Ladies, head over to Gipsy (4605 Paradise Rd.) Wednesday, May 10 from 9 p.m. to close for the official Girlz Pride Party. Fear not, gentlemen. The official Boy's Pride Party will take place Thursday, May 11. Same bat time. Same bat venue.

The Pride Parade will march in downtown Las Vegas Friday, May 12 at 8 p.m. To participate in the parade, download the application online at the Southern Nevada Association of Pride, Inc. (SNAPI) Web site. Parade fees are $100 for businesses and individuals, $75 for Pride vendors and $50 for non-profit organizations. After the parade, head over to Hamburger Mary's for the after party from 11 p.m. to sunrise.

The actual festival takes place Saturday, May 13 from noon to 10 p.m. Enjoy a day of fun and unity with friends and family, visit the various vendors and enjoy the entertainment.

Finally, the Pride events commence with a T-Dance at the Blue Moon Resort (2615 Westwood Dr.) Sunday, May 14 starting at 10 a.m. Tickets will be available at the door for $15, with complimentary admission for guests. Relax, sit by the pool and enjoy the ambience of Las Vegas' only gay (and clothing-optional) resort. For reservations or information regarding the resort, visit the official Web site: www.bluemoonly.com or call 1-800-798-9194.

haven't been paid in six or more weeks," Jett confesses. "My husband has kicked my ass about 300 times over this. I guess he was telling me all along, but I wasn't paying attention."

With responsibilities which include writing, producing and booking guests for Queer Edge, Jett calls his personal commitment to the program "certainly more than a full-time job." Filming five episodes a week kept him so busy, he says, there was little time left to keep abreast of what else was happening within the company. "You do your job and expect others to do theirs," he says.

"Now that the shit's hit the fan, though, it's a different story," Jett points out. With the situation at QTN making headlines in a national publication, everyone's story is beginning to come out. Jett says that now, even more than when speaking to writers from The Advocate, he sees how unaware he was.

"The staff of Queer Edge hadn't been paid in several weeks," he says. "Nobody wanted to tell me." Jett is especially angry about the way QTN has treated its staff. While he says he can "go without paying a few bills," others were truly "caught off-guard."

"There are people who can't pay their rent. Others can't cover their gas bill or phone," Jett says. "Those are hard working people who were putting their heart and soul into this, and that's not just the people who were working on Queer Edge."

Many employees were told the network was going on hiatus and then, afterwards, let go without notice. The host says over the course of his tenure with QTN, he has seen people randomly let go when things were not going as planned within the company. He says this "seemed weird," since management is usually the first to take the fall. With the exception of Olsen, Jett says, "As far as I know, management is still in place."

Financial matters for his crew aside, Jett is not worried. "As far as my manager and I know, we are still on hiatus and will return," he notes. Jett is certain his show—which he says has proven to be "QTN's flagship program"—will live on even if the network itself proves fatally flawed.

"I really think what is happening is sad," he confesses. "All three gay networks offer something so different. I really do think there is room for all three."

"As far as Queer Edge with Sandra and I goes," Jett assures fans, "We will bounce back, whether on QTN or somewhere else." ▼

marrs attacks

By Homer Marrs

A Piece of Their Action

I just bought my first Mötley Crüe CD. I think I may be in love.

Yes, it is 2006, not 1985, and yes, I am a big gay homosexual redundant queerball faggot, not a strip-club bouncer. I don't know what's gotten over me. Preparing for an episode of QRadio recently, I went into Hollywood Video to rent Walk the Line. I came out with that and Carnival of Sins, a live Mötley Crüe concert video from 2005. Honestly, Your Honor, I didn't mean to rent the DVD. It leapt right off the wall and attacked me.

Let's just say I didn't know much about Walk the Line when it came up on the show the next night. I had been too busy shouting at the devil to prepare for the discussion properly.

I'd like to go on record as saying Johnny Cash has contributed more to music than the Crüe and that Joaquin Phoenix has contributed more to my fantasies than Vince Neil (so far). But these guys have gotten under my skin like a new tattoo, and I'm afraid they might not leave. I'm afraid I'm becoming white trash with attitude one power-chord-infused misogynist lyric at a time. And you know what? Fuck you if you don't like it, pussy.

(Uh-oh.)

Considering I majored in psychology, I guess I understand why—in psych lingo—I'm responding to this music so positively. (Remember: you didn't really major in psych unless you believe afterward that you're completely qualified to diagnose all psychological and mental oddities on your own, at will, without the aid of doctors or an actual understanding of the situation.) It's all about opposites and longing to be what we're not. At least I hope.

Mötley Crüe represent, to me, the badass boys of the 1980s whom I secretly wanted to be like as a kid growing up. I was a nerd and a do-gooder, someone who had no business "smokin' in the boys' room," someone you would never find "kickin' ass on the wild side." I liked safe, gay synth-pop, and then later, musical theater. The Crüe were pretty much verboten in our house, but that was a-okay by me. Curiously, one year, Santa did bring me an unrequested copy of Bon Jovi's Slippery When Wet, I think to toughen me up, but it didn't quite take.

When rock eventually made its way to my stereo, it was through the Smashing Pumpkins. The Smashing Pumpkins, Hole, Nirvana and all those angst-ridden '90s bands were much more artsy and interesting to me, and I felt a connection with them. They seemed very against the loud-n-proud party rockers who came before them in the '80s, so I was against them, too. My understanding was that they were one-dimensional goofballs singing about how big their dicks were, and the closest they could come to a metaphor was "Kickstart My Heart."

Now that I'm grown and single, I find myself drawn to guys who are a little rough around the edges. Okay, a lot rough around the edges, to the extent that it causes huge compatibility problems. It's nice for every yin to find its yang, but there's a difference between "opposites attract" and "What the Hell could you two possibly have in common?" That's where the Feisty Four come in.

Right now Vince, Nikki, Tommy and Mick are helping me fill a void, or helping me feel like I am, left by all the straight-and-narrow, right-brain choices I make. They're helping me be that aggressive macho alpha I've always wanted to be, but ain't, and ain't really trying to be, either. They're helping me forget all I learned in poetry class about saying something new and helping me learn to enjoy bragging about how big my dick is.

Because baby, it's huge. It's fuckin' huge, and it wants a piece of your action! ▼

Stretched to the Extreme

I'm not having a good day.

I cut my hand, stepped on my cat, barked at a customer and now I'm about to chase two birds out of the store. Not the strange birds that often make their habitat at Price Video (shameless plug) or the birds that people usually flip in my direction, but little sparrows that waltzed in through the open door. They're flopping around in the porn room right now, banging into the shelves and making all kinds of racket.

Maybe my ornithology is bad. Maybe they're cockatoos.

The capper to all this is that I finally got around to watching a couple of movies to write about, which—given my schedule—practically requires an act of Congress. So why am I whining? I should be ecstatic that I don't have to resort to the same shenanigans that I've pulled the last two months, relying on anecdotes, stories and other forms of fluff and filler to get through this.

I'm upset because one of the flicks I chose to review shows a weenie on the box cover, and I didn't catch it until now.

This means we can't print it. Or if we do, the weenie is going to be covered up or erased or converted to an inie or whatever it is editors do to keep publishers happy. (I wouldn't know, but I have a feeling it involves kneepads and Blistex.)

Like my sexual encounters, I'm seeing this through to completion no matter how many complaints I get. Besides, it's by a local outfit called Xtreme Productions that I've been meaning to mention ever since I became aware of their stuff. Think KC and Billy. Think Winter Vance and Turk Melrose. Think director Afton Nills. Think lots of scenes shot at the Blue Moon Resort.

Know what I'm talking about?

Their new flick is called In My Bedroom. It stars Turk Melrose and Winter Vance (imagine that), along with two new dudes named Hunter Wylde and Tyler Anthony. It's sort of a reality flick in that there really isn't any attempt at plot or production, yet I wouldn't consider it as raw as the stuff from, say, Defiant Productions or the Body Shoppe.

I don't know who this Afton Nills character is, although I suspect that's a pseudonym for the custodian of records for Xtreme, John Dragotta. Regardless, he does good work. His models are always sexy as hell, he makes simple stuff like mutual whacking hot and exciting, and when he uses background music he does so sparingly and in good taste.

Plus he's prolific. Xtreme keeps cranking 'em out on pretty much a weekly basis.

So what can you expect to find In My Bedroom other than a crusty towel and a traumatized cat?

Oddly enough, nothing terribly kinky. I suspect that Winter and Turk are real-life boyfriends, as they rarely touch other guys. (They're the "romance" part of Romance at the Blue Moon Resort, a recent release in which they remain sexually loyal.) Here they do a little foursome action, and we're not talking the PGA Tour, although there are enough balls, putters, shafts and holes to put Scandia out of business. And it's all very vanilla, which is something of an anomaly these days. Scoop it up, 'cuz this will go great in your DVD player. Or with hot fudge.

Start packing.

I rattle off a lot of self-deprecating comments, but I just found something that makes me Stud Of the Decade by comparison. You've probably already adorned this page with acid reflux, but just in case take another look at the box cover of Back in Business.

Is that not enough to make you beeline for the nearest vagina, if not the nearest toilet?

What, in the name of all that's holy, were they thinking? By "they" I mean Blue Pictures, although I think it's more like blew chunks.

How can anyone find this erotic, except, perhaps, Helen Keller? Who is going to have sex with this guy, or worse yet, fantasize over him with an open tub of Boy Butter? (Emphasis on the tub.)

A guy named Ivan Hollms, that's who.

Ivan is a well-built black dude with an enormous schlong. I mean huge. Of course, it would have to be in order to navigate all those mounds. I say "all" because Ivan porks—or should I say, carnitas—five fat Hispanic guys that are all purportedly businessmen, which in itself is a fantasy that I can't possibly entertain.

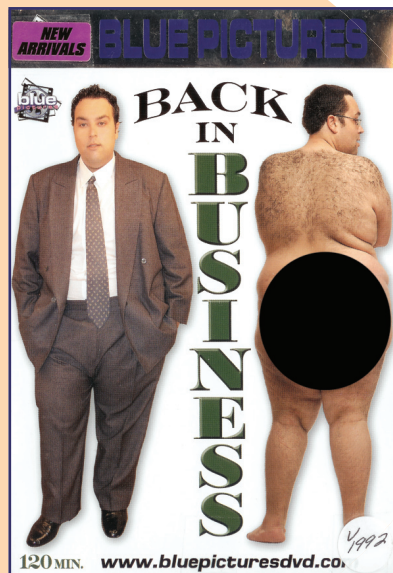

This is truly one of the most disgusting things I've ever seen in my life, not to mention depressing.

The fat guy is getting sex! And I'm not!

How? Why? Good God, Martha! Am I wrong to suggest that some people should never, ever, under any circumstances, take off their clothes in front of other people? I lump myself in that category, so to speak, but at least I know better. Geezus!

Like everywhere else, the dialogue is in Spanish. Even Ivan sputters his lines in what is becoming America's official tongue. Call me what you will, but if this is the future of gay porn I'm demanding a massive erection around its borders as well as legislation making its presence a felony punishable by starvation.

I'm sure we can find some cute, thin Gringos who'll work for cheaper. ▼

Chiwetel Ejiofor as Lola, Sarah Jane Potts as Lauren and Joel Edgerton as Charlie in Kinky Boots.

These Boots Are Made For Watching

By Jon Afalla

Drag queens represent a variety of things. They represent illusion—using the male form as a palette and transforming it into a beautiful, female butterfly. They also represent originality—wearing the wildest and most gorgeous outfits like a fashion badge. Above all else, they represent reinvention.

To reinvent oneself, he or she must take their former shell and create something entirely new. In the British comedy Kinky Boots, Charlie Price (Joel Edgerton) learns just that. From a drag queen, no less.

Based on a true story, Kinky Boots is a tale about an inexperienced man who inherits his father's family-owned shoe business and stumbles financially along the way. Up against a wall, Charlie runs into Lola (Chiwetel Ejiofor; Love Actually, Serenity), a drag queen with a penchant for high-heeled boots. When the fiery queen complains about the need for a heel that could support the weight of a man, she forms an unlikely business partnering with Charlie, and he hatches an idea. Together with a previously downsized employee, Lauren (Sarah-Jane Potts), the three work to create a new niche market for Price Shoes: boots made to withstand the weight of a man while still "oozing sex."

The challenge was to turn the company's boring yet dependable dress shoes into a kinky line of stiletto-heeled boots fit for a king—er—queen. The result? A successful runway show at Milan and a shoe company kept afloat, complete with an innovative line of men's footwear. Not to mention a barrel of laughs along the way.

Set in Northampton, England, a seemingly conservative town, the introduction of a drag queen and a new line of risqué footwear caused quite a riff. Throughout most of the movie, Lola battles a group of ignorant workers set on ostracizing her for her different ways. Charlie also struggles with doubt from his fiancée and himself in his quest for reinvention. In the end, everyone overcomes his or her personal constraints. In that respect, Kinky Boots really highlights people overcoming societal norms, pushing boundaries and re-examining beliefs.

Edgerton shines as Charlie, showing strong character evolution throughout the film. He starts off as a reserved, clueless and naïve entrepreneur, but in the end radiates as a confident and successful business owner, forming a close bond with Lola. The star of Boots, however, was Ejiofor. He really brings life to Lola's character, fiercely representing drag queen ideals: sassiness, poise, grace and a love for slutty couture. Ejiofor also does a wonderful job showcasing the personal conflict between life as a man and life as a woman. Bottom line: a fun-filled laugh riot with a positive message.

Kinky Boots is now playing in theaters everywhere. ▼

horoscopes

By Rev. Bill Morin

Aries

(March 20-April 19)

Life may seem like a big balancing act until April 20. Your patience gets put to the test on the 23rd. Avoid the party scene on the 27th at all costs. Career aspects look superb on May 4. Go along with what the boss says on the 9th. It's best to not give ultimatums on the 13th.

Taurus

(April 20-May 20)

Following orders isn't your fave thing, but it'll be necessary right up until April 24. New Moon in your sign on the 27th sparks a new start for a love relationship. Physical energies rebound nicely on May 2. It's wise to hear both sides of a difficult story on the 8th. Don't pass judgment.

Gemini

(May 21-June 21)

Good fortune smiles on you after April 18. A golden real estate deal on the 23rd should be explored further. Be sure to dress up for a bash on the 29th. May 5 is best for playing games of chance. Aspects at home calm down around the 10th. Give each other some space.

Cancer

(June 22-July 22)

April 15 and 16 is perfect for wining and dining prospective new clients. Your energy levels dip on the 20th, but rebound beautifully by the 25th. Selling new ideas gets amazing response on May 6. Full Moon on the 12th heightens your seductive powers. Don't abuse them!

Leo

(July 23-August 22)

Your life pace shall be fast paced and a bit insane right up until April 26. There's only so much of you to go around, so don't run on empty. Digestive probs may crop up on May 3. Scorpio Full Moon on the 12th adds stress to your love life. Issues of faith and trust will test you.

Virgo

(August 23-September 22)

Only the last six days of this cycle keep it from being a perfect 10. Incoming cash flow looks great during late April. Affairs of the heart happily enchant you on May 7. The 8th is best for completing ongoing projects. Try to take a mini getaway between the 9th and 14th.

Libra

(September 23-October 22)

You're devilishly attractive on April 19. A hottie you meet on the 20th, sleeps over til the 23rd. Career aspects get supercharged on the 29th. Another credit card gets paid off in early May. Looks could be quite deceiving on the 10th. Keep to yourself on the 13th if possible.

Scorpio

(October 23-November 21)

Career and financial aspects should take top priority up until April 22. You'll win a test of wills on the 27th. Avoid a fool's gold type of investment on May 1. Out of town guests brighten your mood on the 9th. Refrain from criticizing a co-worker on the 13th.

Sagittarius

(November 22-December 21)

Sometimes all the pieces just fit perfectly, much like this 30 day cycle. Love is on the way for many centaurs, most notably on April 27. Your intuition is incredibly strong on May 1. You'll look amazing on the 8th. Full Moon on the 12th makes you very popular socially.

Capricorn

(December 22-January 19)

Career aspects look like slow going until April 24. Until then, it's best to be patient and bite the bullet. All the work you've done since December begins to pay off incredibly well as of May 3. Financial aspects soar after that, bringing much relief. Make the 13th a do nada day.

Aquarius

(January 20-February 18)

Rules were made to be broken, but promises you made are not. Keep out of a sibling's drama on April 26. Your grace under fire shall impress higher ups on the 28th. Business negotiations made on May 4 will have a long term impact. Play hookey on the 10th.

Pisces

(February 19-March 19)

Tooting your horn on April 19 brings about results. The competition for new clients is fierce on the 27th. Financial concerns are pure illusion. May 6 finds you romantically charged. Go shopping for new threads on the 7th. Full Moon on the 12th brings out your moody side.

Treasure Island Media is more a cult than a film studio.
-Mark Adams, Vidioview.com

Wow...ok, so I was at a friend's house over the weekend and we were watchin the Plantin Seed 2 video. I've never been so turned on before. I mean, the entire video is hot. Every scene literally had my [redacted] throbbing. The reason for this email though has to be that last scene between Jason Summers and Johnny Farrell. Johnny probably has the best ass I've ever seen in porn. It's like it was made for [redacted] I wanted to dive in the tv screen and [redacted] out myself. The whole scene is a challenge to slutty bottoms everywhere. He obviously enjoyed that Jason's [redacted] and he took that [redacted] like a champion (and what a [redacted] it was...damn) He made me want to [redacted] that ass, and for that I have to say great job to you. I mean, porn is porn, but for me to decide to send an email about a porn I saw 4 days ago that's still fresh in my memory means it was [redacted] hot. Thanks...and uh, when do I get to see more of Johnny's ass?

- Greg Sehms Jr., 22, Minneapolis, MN

A man with short brown hair and a light beard is sitting on a wooden staircase. He is wearing a dark blue t-shirt with the text 'I LOVE RANDY' in white and orange letters. He is also wearing blue and white patterned shorts. He is smiling and looking towards the camera. A black metal railing is in the foreground, partially obscuring the view. In the top right corner, there is a logo for 'RANDYBLUE.com' with a starburst effect. At the bottom, there is a white text overlay that reads 'who doesn't love randy blue?'.
