COVER STORY

ANTHONY CRIVELLO AS THE PHANTOM

SPECTACULARLY Haunting PHANTOM—THE LAS VEGAS SPECTACULAR CELEBRATES ONE YEAR AT THE VENETIAN

By M. Cory Burgess

Grander, flashier, more electrifying. That's how one can describe nearly everything in Las Vegas, where the line between reality and fantasy is frequently blurred. The same can be said for Phantom—The Las Vegas Spectacular, the $35 million production which opened in a new $40 million theater at The Venetian last summer.

Phantom tells the story of Christine Daae, a young ballerina at the Paris Opera House who has been receiving vocal training from a secret tutor, the fearful Phantom. His death threats against cast and crew have led Christine to take center stage in several productions, much to the chagrin of the Opera's prima donna, Carlotta. Christine's sweetheart, Raoul, has become patron to the Opera House and must protect Christine from the seduction of the Phantom and spare the lives of others from his wrath before it's too late.

Twenty-one years ago, the original production of Andrew Lloyd Webber's Phantom of the Opera opened in London. Widely considered the most influential musical of all time, and undeniably the world's most recognized musical theater masterpiece, Phantom has grossed more than $3 billion worldwide, having played more than 65,000 performances in 20 countries and 110 cities. The Broadway production swept with the 1988 Tony Awards, receiving seven awards, followed by seven Drama Desk Awards and three Outer Critics Awards. Early last year, it became the longest-running show in Broadway history, bypassing Lloyd Webber's own Cats.

When the decision was made to bring such an icon of Broadway to the Las Vegas Strip, Lloyd Webber was reunited with director Hal Prince, choreographer Gillian Lynne and others from the original creative team. Together, they envisioned a shortened 95-minute version perfect for Vegas visitors with their inherently short attention spans. But with the show shortened nearly an hour (although all songs remain intact), it was decided that the overall experience must be more over the top than any previous production. Appropriately reflecting the changes, the show's actual title was renamed for the Vegas production.

Much like the immersive experiences found around town in the plethora of location-themed resorts, the custom-built theater was designed in the style of a Paris opera house in the 1800s, complete with patrons in the box seating along the sides. Even the centerpiece of the show, the famous chandelier that crashes toward the audience, was built bigger and better than ever, at an expense of $5 million. David Rockwell, designer of the Kodak Theatre in Los Angeles and Nobu Las Vegas at the Hard Rock Hotel Casino, was brought on board to create the elegant theater.

Headlining the Vegas production of Phantom are Brent Barrett and Anthony Crivello, dual-cast as the Phantom. Elizabeth Loyacano alternates the role of Christine with Kristi Holden, who recently joined the show to replace Sierra Boggess, who left Phantom after a year to star as Ariel in Disney's The Little Mermaid on Broadway. Bringing previous experience from the Broadway cast are Tim Martin Gleason as Raoul, Geena Jeffries Mattox as Carlotta and Larry Wayne Morbitt as Ubaldo Piangi. Rebecca Spencer, who plays ballet mistress Madame Giry, made her 1992 Phantom debut in Germany as Carlotta.

To mark the one-year anniversary of Phantom—The Las Vegas Spectacular, two new exclusive looks into the show have become available. Patrons now have the chance to see inside the magnificent Phantom Theatre free of charge, Tuesday-Friday, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Also now available is an exciting and unique VIP experience. Fans can purchase one Golden Circle ticket, an elite backstage tour and a personal meet and greet with Phantom cast members for only $250. This offer is available Tuesday-Friday only.

Performances are Monday and Saturday at 7 and 9:30 p.m. and Tuesday-Friday at 7 p.m. The show is dark on Sundays. Tickets, priced $55-150 each, are available by calling The Venetian Box Office at 866-641-7469 or 702-414-9000 or online at www.venetian.com. For groups of 15 or more, call 866-633-0195. Hairspray Proudly Shows Its Roots

THE LATEST STAR-STUDED VERSION OF JOHN WATERS' HAIRSPRAY IS A FEEL-GOOD CELEBRATION OF OUR DIFFERENCES WITH A DECIDEDLY GAY LEGACY.

By Christopher Cappiello

When John Waters makes a quick cameo as a flasher during "Good Morning Baltimore," the joyful opening number of Hairspray—the film version of the 2002 Broadway musical adaptation of Waters' original 1988 film—it's as if the outrageous auteur is letting his fans know that it's OK to love this irresistible new incarnation of his tale of a chubby little girl with big dreams.

"John basically gave us freedom, and that's the best cooperation you can ask for," says Neil Meron, who produced the film with longtime business partner Craig Zadan. "He told the creators of the Broadway musical, 'Do your version,' and that's what he told us. And then when he saw the film, he sent [director] Adam [Shankman] and Craig and myself an e-mail that said, 'Thank you for making me a very happy grandfather.'"

Waters has reason to be happy. Zadan and Meron, the masterminds behind the Oscar-winning adaptation of Chicago, have gathered an all-star cast to bring the Marc Shaiman/Scott Wittman musical to film. John Travolta leads the way as Edna Turnblad, the plus-size Baltimore housewife whose daughter Tracy (newcomer Nikki Blonsky) dreams of dancing on "The Corny Collins Show" and ends up integrating a Baltimore television station in 1962.

The cast also includes Michelle Pfeiffer as Velma Von Tussle, the deliciously evil station head, Christopher Walken as Edna's adoring husband, Wilbur, Queen Latifah as Motormouth Maybelle and James Marsden as Corny Collins.

While the film centers on issues of race—specifically the fact that "The Corny Collins Show" relegates black participants to the occasional "Negro Day"—the project has a serious gay pedigree, beginning with Waters and including Shaiman and Wittman, longtime out producing team Zadan and Meron, and even Shankman.

"The fact that the man who created it is so openly gay infuses the whole story with a kind of gay soul," Meron says. "It's not underlined, because there's nothing gay about the story itself. It's just inherent in the piece and its themes.”

While the notion of a man playing a zaftig woman seems like an obvious gay touch, Travolta’s Edna differs from those of Divine and Fierstein in her innate femininity. Casting the star of Grease in a huge summer movie musical was both the producers’ greatest stroke of genius and their most difficult idea to pull off.

When New Line interviewed Zadan and Meron about producing, the pair suggested Travolta for the role. “John had not been on any of their lists,” Meron explains. “They were approaching it with the big name comedy stars. But our approach was [to make] a movie musical, and arguably John is the greatest star of movie musicals of our generation.” The only trouble was convincing the star that an overweight housebound housewife was the right role for his return to the genre.

“No’ was a year and a half,” Travolta says about how long it took to convince him. “I wasn’t worried about the singing and dancing. That was the easy part. It was the character.” The actor needed to be sure that he would be allowed to play Edna as a woman, not as a man playing a woman. Barely recognizable save for those Danny Zuko eyes peering out from the elaborate makeup, Travolta’s Edna is all soft voice, big curves and endearing insecurity, with little of the camp qualities that Divine and Fierstein brought to the part.

“Each actor that has played Edna is brilliant and defined the role that they wanted to do,” Meron says. “John wanted to do what you see on the screen. That was his approach from Day One.” His approach, it turns out, was in sync with the vision of the producers and director, who sought to make a genuine film version of the musical, and not a documentation of the broader Broadway show.

“I wanted to play this from an emotionally really real place,” Shankman says. “A play has to project out, but a movie has to draw you in. So I was going to approach it that way, where I wanted his performance to really pull you in, as opposed to blast you. And I think he really liked that.”

As a result, instead of being campy, it is surprisingly touching to watch Travolta and Walken sing and dance together in “Timeless to Me,” the couple’s charming duet performed in their cramped, laundry-strewn back yard. Walken, it turns out, was Travolta’s idea. “He was my number one choice, absolutely, because we had the same background,” the star says of their shared history in musical. “It’s a zone, man, a zone that only a few of us understand.”

JOHN TRAVOLTA

The movie musical has some new songs by Shaiman and Wittman and some changes in the story to make it more suitable to film. “We believe in reinvention, not re-creation,” Zadan says. “Every time we’ve done a movie musical, we’ve started from scratch and said, ‘How do you make this cinematic?’ That’s the primary goal. How do you make it so that if you’ve never seen the stage show, if you’ve never even heard of the stage show, that you will love the movie nevertheless?”

While Hairspray is clearly a stand-alone, uplifting treat, die-hard fans will have plenty to smile at, too. In addition to Waters’ cameo, the original Tracy, Ricki Lake, appears as a sunglasses-clad William Morris agent for the film’s grand finale, and Jerry Stiller, the original Wilbur Turnblad, does a hilarious turn as the owner of Mr. Pinky’s Hefty Hideaway, a clothing store for women of Edna’s size.

As for the prospect of becoming an icon for the gay community, the bubbly 18-year-old from Great Neck, Long Island, is ready. “I can’t wait! Are you kidding? That’s like the greatest honor,” she gushes. “My motto is live and let live happily. We spend so much time judging everyone else, and hating, and it’s just silly.”

Zadan furthers the thought. “What’s so inspiring about the movie is that it starts off where this chubby girl wants to get on a dance show, and by the end of the movie she integrates a television station in Baltimore. I think that inspirational thing applies to gay rights, it applies to the issue of gays getting married. All of that will not happen unless you have the Tracy Turnblads out there fighting for it.”

Shankman sums it up: “It’s an entire movie about not judging and having the courage of your convictions and being proud of who you are inside and out. And it does it all with song and dance. So go into it and celebrate as a fabulous person, and then go out there and explore your inner Tracy!” ▼

AN EVENING AT LA CAGE RIVIERA HOTEL 702-794-9433

Who ever expected female impersonators to be such a hit with the older hetero tourists? It's worked out great for Frank Marino (who hosts and appears as Joan Rivers) and the cast who've been entertaining such crowds now for over 20 years. LGBT tourists will also most likely get a kick out of the Liza and Madonna impersonations, among others.

Wes Winters performs as Liberace three times weekly in the museum's Grand Gallery.

BRENDEN THEATRES & IMAX PALMS 702-507-4TIX (4849)

One of the most state-of-the-art places to watch movies near The Strip, Brenden Theatres at the Palms also offers a massive IMAX screen for size queens to view the latest blockbuster films even bigger than usual.

songbird before her contract ends. Bette's coming to town and taking over the Colosseum early next year, so get tickets while you can.

COCA-COLA TICKETS2NITE SHOWCASE MALL 702-968-8800

Everyone likes a great deal, right? With as many shows and attractions as Vegas has to offer, not every show sells out every night, so Coca-Cola Tickets2Nite gives you the chance to be a cheap-skate and buy half-price tickets to several of the headliners, comedians and magicians in town.

DONN ARDEN'S JUBILEE! BALLY'S 702-967-4567 / 877-374-7469

THE FASHIONISTAS EMPIRE BALLROOM 702-836-0833

Who would have thought a famous porn film would translate into a show on the Strip? Well, it's a natural fit for Vegas with its suggestive choreography. However, don't expect toplessness here (except on the hunky males).

ICE: DIRECT FROM RUSSIA RIVIERA HOTEL 702-794-9433

FANTASTIC INDOOR SWAP MEET 1717 S. DECATUR BLVD. 702-877-0087

While most swap meets are outdoors, Las Vegas simply isn't the right place for this type of shopping with its 100+ degree summers. The Fantastic Indoor Swap Meet is the perfect alternative, but this is all new stuff, not the used junk you'll find at some swap meets and flea markets.

FASHION OUTLETS OF LAS VEGAS INTERSTATE 15, EXIT 1 IN PRIMM 702-874-1400

As you approach Vegas from the south, it's hard to miss this fine little outlet mall right next to the California state border, connected to the Primm Valley Resort and Casino. But don't let the name fool you; it's really about 30 miles away from Sin City.

FASHION SHOW LAS VEGAS BLVD. SOUTH AT SPRING MOUNTAIN 702-369-0704

The name would perhaps imply a high fashion type of mall, but Fashion Show has stores for all budgets from Louis Vuitton to Hollister and several non-clothing stores as well. The center court actually has a runway that raises from the floor for periodic fashion shows, hence the name.

FORUM SHOPS AT CAESARS PALACE 702-893-4800

Ever ridden a spiraling escalator before? If not, step foot in the newest wing of the Forum Shops and check it out. This mall is as well known for its spectacle (including two animatronic shows and an aquarium) as it is for its high-class shopping and dining options.

HOROSCOPES

by Rev. Bill Morin

CANCER (June 22-July 21) A career victory on July 19 brings you great pride. Steer away from speculative financial ventures on the 26th. A best friend will need some TLC on the 30th. Set any personal ambitions aside on Aug. 3. Lunar aspects on the 8th shall make it difficult for you to be flexible. Don't let a partner's moodiness get to you on the 13th.

LEO (July 23-August 22) Life will feel lackluster until July 20. You could hit a bull's eye blindfolded on the 28th. Turning on the charm helps seal the deal on Aug. 1. Stay true to your heart's desire on the 9th. New Moon in your sign on the 14th triggers an avalanche of social invites & activities. You can't say yes to all of them Leo. Not even with your stamina.

VIRGO (August 23-September 22) Real estate transactions are highlighted on July 17 and 18. You'll pass a test of faith beautifully on the 22nd. As the Sun transits to your sign on the 23rd, amazing financial aspects will begin. Don't hesitate to push the career envelope on Aug. 7. Your sage advice/honesty shall be greatly sought after on the 12th and 13th.

LIBRA (September 23-October 22) Your amazing artistic gifts will be greatly sought after as of July 19. You'll be in such demand, but remember each day only has 24 hours. Powerful romantic aspects head your way as of Aug. 1. Open your mind and heart to them. Give in to the urge to party hearty on the 10th. Avoid arguments on the 14th.

SCORPIO (October 23-November 21) You'll get to settle a great debate on July 17. Higher ups will be impressed by your tenacity and focus on the 24th. Don't tune out constructive criticism on the 31st. Relationship issues must take top priority on Aug. 5. A spending spree on the 10th brings a joyful gleam to your eyes. Avoid the club scene on the 13th.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22-December 21) Incoming cash flow increases nicely as of the 15th. Watch the impulse buying and finances will remain stable. A long desired dream gig manifests around the 23rd. Avoid being deceptive on the 30th. Planetary vibes heighten your gambling muse on Aug. 4. Open your heart to that new love on the 12th.

CAPRICORN (December 22-January 19) It's best to go with the flow on July 18. Making waves will only haunt you later on. Joyous getaway from the 24th-29th makes you feel young again. Business deal move along at lightning speed on Aug. 5 and 6. Speaking softly on the 9th wins your more points. Social gala on the 11th introduces a new business contact.

AQUARIUS (January 20-February 18) You'll be incredibly persuasive on July 18. Pay attention to those weird dreams on the 21st and 22nd. Financial deal completed on the 28th brings about long term benefits. Complete fall getaway travel plans by Aug. 2. Be generous with a sibling on the 5th. Minor back aches and pains should completely vanish by the 10th.

PISCES (February 19-March 19) It's important to save as much as possible until late October. Resist buying expensive luxury items on July 21. Watch that temper on the 29th, though a war of words will prove quite tempting. Taking the easy way out on Aug. 2 simply won't work. A local move may be in the works as of the 9th. Think about it carefully.

ARIES (March 20-April 19) Being rational and diplomatic is the only way to go on July 16. Seek out the advice of a sage/wizard on the 22nd. Career aspects look dazzling right through the Fall. Aug. 1-5 is a horrid time to begin any new projects. Most everyone shall be on your side come the 8th. The 11th and 12th look strongest for buying that new set of wheels.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Let your resume do all the talking on July 17th. Being loud doesn't make your "right" on the 20th. Financial strains ease up somewhat on the 26th. Lunar aspects on the 30th create stress on the job. Try to avoid interstate driving on Aug. 3rd. Your strong convictions will be tested on the 10th. Spend the 14th by yourself if at all possible.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) This cycle contains 31 days or 744 hours. You'll likely need twice that amount to manage all of those projects. Don't let "naysayers" dampen your enthusiasm on July 20th. You'll captivate any audience on the 28th. Physical energies will soar on Aug. 2nd. Plan a small "soiree" for the 7th. Get away from it all on the 13th & 14th Gemmy!
