Harry POTTER

and the LESBIAN
INVASION

By Jon Afalla

About a month ago, a colleague asked if I was going to the Harry Potter convention. I stared at the words in the e-mail for a few seconds before my eyes quickly widened in anticipation. I knew Vegas to be the land of 1,000 conventions, ranging in variety from anime to the world of adult entertainment, but I never imagined it would host a convention in honor of my favorite book series. Without hesitation I replied, "How do we get press credentials?" Somewhere in the distance I had triggered the infamous nerd alert.

Two days later, I received an e-mail from her saying she had reserved me press credentials. Bless the efficiency of lesbians! So I eagerly awaited the day when I could show up and be immersed in the world of all things magical. There goes that alarm again.

Prior to attending said convention, I looked up information on it via the official Web site: lumos2006.org. To my surprise, I learned that it wasn't a convention at all. It was actually a symposium. I was going to be attending something similar to a convention, only smaller and with more presentations and topic discussions. A glorified book club meeting spanning four days was what I was headed for. But it was Harry Potter, I thought. How bad could it be?

On the second day of the four-day symposium, I left work early to cover the event. With my trusty co-worker/makeshift photographer at my side, we headed up to the JW Marriott.

I exchanged Harry Potter trivia with my co-worker to pump myself up for the occasion. What street did Harry live on? Privet Drive! What is the name of the ball used in Quidditch? A quaffle! The nerd alert strikes again.

We stumbled around the casino area, searching for the convention area. When we saw several bodies brandishing cloaks and wizard attire, we knew we were heading the right way. I pursed my lips after seeing all of the detailed and elaborate costumes. I stood there wishing I had dressed up, too. Now that alarm's just getting annoying.

When we got to the registration area, a helpful and energetic woman gave us our credentials and led us to the press room—a small conference room in a nearby corridor complete with water and Lifesavers candy. Where was the Butterbeer? Or the British cuisine? Though I don't know how daring I'd be to try something called Shepard's pie. I was expecting Harry Potter-esque treats. Not an after-school snack. We did, however, get a symposium bag filled with goodies.

After getting the camera gear ready, we perused the halls of the convention area, passing fans young and old brandishing cloaks and imitating their favorite character. After being in the throes of the symposium for only five minutes, I came to a startling conclusion: Lesbians love Harry Potter.

That's right. Dykes and the wizarding world go hand in hand like supermodels and eating disorders. And they all wanted to dress like Harry—short brown hair, cloak, Quidditch gear, the whole shebang. I even mistook several for young men. One dyed her hair bleach blonde, dressing as Draco Malfoy, Harry's snooty arch-nemesis. But none of these women wanted to emulate Harry's female sidekick Hermione Granger. Or any female character, for that matter. For those of you confused by all of the Harry Potter references, please consult your nearest lesbian. She will apparently know the answer.

And all of my lesbo sisters traveled in packs. Not a single lesbian was ever seen unattended by her kind. They competed in—surprise, surprise an athletic event—water Quidditch (not to be confused with water sports). They overpowered the minority groups with their intimidating numbers. They posed for pictures with their wand replicas. I shudder to think what they do with their wooden shafts post symposium.

All this time I thought Harry had a huge gay male following, but none were to be seen at the Lumos symposium. At least none that really screamed Flaming Queen—though my gaydar has been known to fail me from time to time. There were instances, although, of nicely pressed, designer wizard wear—the Gucci of Potter world, if you will—seen on a couple of male attendees. Perhaps their keen fashion sense, albeit bordering on freak, was an indication I overlooked during my symposium fascination.

Lesbians aside, the symposium housed many items sure to titillate any Harry Potter fan. A Hogwarts dollhouse and fan art decorated one room. In another, we found a variety of costumes and series-related merchandise, all of which was horribly overpriced. I wanted a replica of Harry's TriWizard Tournament outfit, but I wasn't prepared to pay $45 for a Lycra tunic. Even if it was my favorite color. And pretty. Sigh.

The evenings and weekend held lectures and classes—history of magic, arithmancy, you name it. But, as much of a fan as I am of the series, that was a bit much. Harry Potter classes? Harry Potter For Dummies? Uh uh. I may be a nerd, but I'm no geek. And there's a difference! ▼

Doing the Big "A"

By Jon Afalla

If you think Another Gay Movie is just another gay coming-of-age story, think again. Sure, it has elements of your typical queer film: the flamboyant and straight-acting gay dichotomy and the journey of coming out and sexual exploration. But what makes this film unique from the rest—a maverick in the gay film genre—is its raw, unapologetic portrayal of gay sex and its no-holds-barred comedy.

You're probably thinking, so what? Queer as Folk did that for five whole seasons! Well, Queer as Folk wasn't half as raunchy and overt with gratuitous frontal nudity as Another Gay Movie. Not by a long shot. For starters, Queer as Folk never showed a guy masturbating in the shower with a fully erect penis. Shocked? Intrigued? Read on.

Following high school graduation, lead man Andy (Michael Carbanaro) and his band of fellow gay buds embark on a quest to lose their virginities. Provoked by chick-magnet bull-dyke Muffler (Ashlie Atkinson)—a gay derivative of American Pie's Stiffler—the boys are more than anxious to do "the big A." Along for the bumpy ride is Jarod (Jonathan Chase), the straight-acting muscle jock; Griff (Mitch Morris), the mild-mannered closet romantic; and Nico (Jonah Blechman), the token flamer.

The opening scene sets the tone for the raunchiness to come. Or should I say cum? Andy fantasizes about bottoming for his foreign exchange teacher Mr. Puckov (Graham Norton). During his daydreams, he explores his lower orifice with various large vegetables—a spoof on the infamous sock masturbation scene in American Pie, only twice as shocking. When his mom (Lypsinka) walks in on him, she discovers where her salad ingredients have been disappearing to and that Andy's gerbil has mysteriously vanished. Andy's father (Kids in the Hall actor Scott Thompson) joins in on his wife's discovery and is later inspired to reveal his bisexuality, culminating in an embarrassing public restroom meeting with a familiar face.

During the boys' journey to lose their virginities, they encounter a few pitfalls. Andy's fantasy of sleeping with Mr. Puckov becomes a reality, but the experience turns out to be more than he bargained for. Anyone who likes their sex raw, dirty and all things non-vanilla (literally) will appreciate this scene. Nico has his share of celebrity encounters, crossing paths with porn star Matthew Rush and Survivor nudist (jailed like Martha) Richard Hatch.

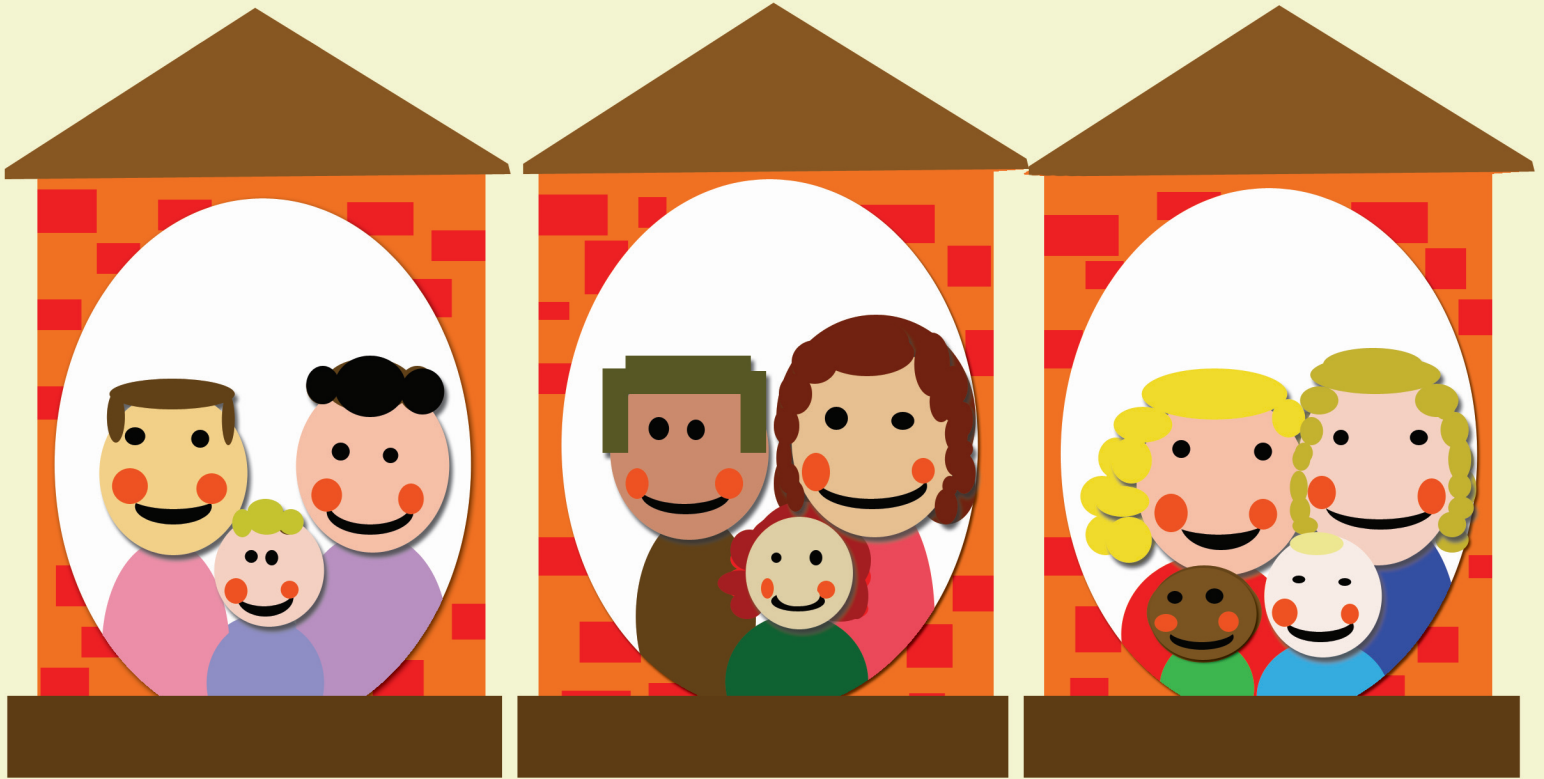

His efforts to screw with the big leagues are thwarted, however, by a drug overdose and an impromptu case of the runs. Griff tries to enhance his booty appeal by stuffing his jeans with padding, only to be humiliated in front of an entire bar when the padding deflates. Jarod, self-conscious about his penis length, attempts to use a pump to enhance his manhood, which short circuits and produces disastrous results.

Although encountering numerous disasters along the way, the four main stars are eventually successful in their efforts. While Jarod starts getting up close and personal with Beau (Boy Meet Boy star James Getzlaff) and Griff makes out with dancer Angel (Noah's Arc star Darryl Stephens), the two realize that what they want is each other, inevitably leading to them hooking up in every position imaginable. Andy hooks up with Griff and Jarod's leftovers at the same time, giving new meaning to the term "power bottom." And Nico hooks up with Muffler's grandfather, another homage to American Pie, albeit a touch more disturbing.

Filmmaker Todd Stephens (Edge of Seventeen) enjoyed working with such a talented cast. "It took forever to assemble the four lead boys, but once we were shooting I sat in awe as they played and improvised the script to the next level. I specifically wanted to cast out gay actors, and working with icons like Scott Thompson and Graham Norton was a dream come true. The icing on the cake was having my all-time idol Nancy Sinatra sing the theme song Marty Beller and I wrote, 'Another Gay Sunshine Day.'"

Look for Another Gay Movie, airing in Las Vegas at the Regal Village Square (9400 W. Sahara Ave.) Friday, Aug. 25. ▼

Monday Evening

MONDAY MORNING PART 2

Home from work now. I lie in bed and watch the ceiling fan spin. It is dark in here. An arrow of borrowed light shoots in from the hallway. It runs fast along the carpet, landing on the bed's edge just below my feet, missing me but barely.

Evan will call soon. Our brief chat this morning has been on my mind all day. Did I give him an STD, and if so, what? Is he going to fly back to Vegas for revenge against a one-night stand? Do people do that? I can't believe I was dumb enough to get drunk and have unprotected sex with someone I didn't know.

The red light turns on half a second before the familiar song begins: I have a call. This time I don't bother to look at the ID. "Hello?"

"Hey, Homer."

"Hey, Evan. What's up?"

"Is now a good time to talk?" His tone is very matter-of-fact, so I follow suit.

"Yeah. So what are your symptoms, exactly?"

"I feel sick and there's some inflammation around the tip of my penis."

"Hmm," I put on my poor-man's-physician hat. "What do you mean by 'sick'?"

"I don't know. I haven't had sex with a guy in two years."

Wow. That's not right. Evan's a good-looking guy, and while he lives in Oklahoma, that can't be normal. I cut to the quick. "Look, all you can do is go to a doctor and let me know if you have something. Talking about it won't get us far."

"Well, so if I go get an STD test, isn't my company gonna know about it from my insurance?" His pace is jumpier now.

"No, not at all," I say, trading my poor-man's-physician hat for a poor-man's-lawyer one. "Your employer isn't allowed to know anything about your medical situation unless they need to. There are all kinds of laws against that."

"Well, what about the insurance bill? What's it going to say, 'STD test'?"

There is something juvenile in the way he says "STD test" that catches me. Evan is in his 30s, so this can't be completely new to him. He should at least know the names of a few diseases or be capable of a more specific fear. "No, they're very scientific. I've had them before. Why, do you have a roommate?" I ask.

"Sort of."

Uh-oh. I think I know what that means.

"Are you married?"

"Hmh-uhmh," he mumbles.

"Wait, was that 'mm-hmm,' as in 'yes,' or 'uh-unh,' as in 'no'?"

"That was a yes." There is a long pause.

"Are you still there?"

"I'm here," I sigh, reaching for my poor-man's-shrink hat. "OK, well, the good news is you probably don't have anything. You're just paranoid because you know you came to Vegas, got drunk and did something really stupid with a stranger. So you're freaking out because you realize you've put your wife at risk as well, and having an STD would mean having to tell her you cheated on her and with a guy at that."

"I know," he says slowly. "You're right."

"Evan, listen," I slow down, too. "Do you consider yourself straight or gay?"

"Gay."

"Like, bisexual, or gay?"

"Gay." I have not heard so much shame in that word since high school.

"Well, does your wife know?"

"She knows I used to date a guy before we got married, but, that's all. It's a little more complicated now."

"Do you have kids?"

"Two."

Good grief, Charlie Brown. Where is Lucy when we need real psychiatric help? "Evan, it's not my business, but you need to tell your wife you're gay. If she's married to a man who isn't capable of loving her romantically, she needs to know that."

"That's not the issue. We haven't been physical in over six months."

"Well then she probably feels really ugly! She probably thinks you're not attracted to her. And I guess you're not, but you should let her know it's because you're attracted to men. She'll be relieved, in that respect, anyway."

"I've just decided to put my own desires on the back burner so I can raise my daughters." There is a heavy sadness in his voice that discomforts me. Tired, I discard all my hats.

"Evan, it's one thing for you to make that decision for yourself, but another for you to make it for your wife, too. She should know she's married to a gay man." There is another long pause.

"I should get going," he says. "I'll go to the clinic tomorrow."

"Please do, and let me know if you have anything."

"I will," he promises, and we say goodbye. I lie back on my bed again. As the ceiling fan spins, small cakes of dust come off its edges. I wonder how it ever got so dirty. ▼

Another Sappy Ending

I realize this is difficult to believe, but if any of you have perused my column in the past you'll know that I make every effort to avoid scatological references, vulgar descriptions and gratuitous profanity. While this means I'll obviously never make it as a politician (or an attorney with the ACLU), it could also suggest that you're getting the shaft, as it were, in terms of accurately summarized porn.

"How can anyone write about people boinking on camera without using four-letter-words," you may ask? "Isn't that like reviewing a restaurant and not mentioning the food?" For starters, I use corny lingo like "boink." I talk about style and vision more so than citing explicit detail. In fact, half of what you read here has very little to do with the supposed substance whatsoever, yet somehow or another I manage to get away with it.

Come to think of it, I'd make a great liberal activist.

This standard, however, is about to be abridged, particularly because it's impossible to discuss anything from Treasure Island Media in language other than the most graphic available. I'm aware I have a little more leeway than, say, the guy who writes the employee manual for the Mormon Church, yet I'm sure my editor will be scouring this piece with his red pen readily on hand.

Tough bananas. He asked for it, and boy, is he gonna get it.

The flick is called Meat Packing. The logo features a bull and a pig cut into imaginary chunks set off by perforated lines with the words "Director's Cut" superimposed upon them. The box cover blurb reads: "Dawson's back and, as usual, he wants as many loads as he can get up that perfect ass of his. But he gets serious competition from cumslut Jerek. These two compete all weekend for hot loads from a crowd of heavy-hung studs."

Aside from violating the sacred creed of good writing by repeating the word "loads" and derivatives of "compete," the synopsis pretty much does what synopses ought, but with one major—and I mean major—omission: It disregards the water sports, without which this would be just another hardcore fuck flick.

By "water sports" I don't mean wake boarding or parasailing or even deep-sea fishing, although I guarantee there's some diving involved and possibly a mask or two. I mean pee. Urine. Piss. Golden showers.

The opening scene features a couple of shaved heads going at it doggy style. The top blows his wad in the bottom, if you will, rutting appear two other shaved skulls who drench the bottom's head and back with warm, amber liquid, fresh from the tap. He appears to love it, which leads me to wonder if the phrase "Oh, piss on ya" is really all that derogatory. This continues until all bladders are empty and all parties sated, leaving our bottom buddy awash in bodily fluids, not to mention nasty verbiage.

I'm curious. Would writing about such things qualify as yellow journalism?

Needless to say, this is a hard act to follow. The remaining footage is fairly milquetoast by comparison, although there is another scene wherein one dude pees in another dude's mouth. There is also some outdoor action between a Hispanic guy and a bald fellow with a little white goatee (emphasis on the "goat") that would be reminiscent of Juan Valdez screwing Vladimir Lenin had Lenin not screwed just about everyone else.

Meat Packing is directed by Max Sohl, who has done quite a bit of work for Treasure Island. But the man behind the name is Paul Morris (not to be confused with Factory Video's Scott Morris) of San Francisco. In many ways, his product is also very San Fran in that it features models that don't fit the West Hollywood pretty boy type, as well as fetishes and kinks that wouldn't bode well with a more vanilla audience.

This stuff features no attempt at a plot, other than the one these guys are going to wind up in if they keep on swapping semen. It is well-produced in that the action is vividly captured and the lighting and audio on a par with any other first-class production company. The sex is obviously not of the tender and loving variety, but that's not their niche. Nor is this mine.

As Sam Goldwyn said, "Include me out." I don't care for the models or the themes or the activities, but I realize porn is a subjective venture and quality can't always be measured by the turn-on factor. Besides, I've already alienated enough owners and directors. I don't know how I could explain another loss to my editor, except by saying the obvious:

"Oh, piss on ya." ▼

then proceeds to slip a tube inside him that's hooked up to a funnel via a rubber hose. (I'm using every bit of restraint I can muster to avoid saying, "The funnel start now.") This, of course, is the means by which said top will deliver his liquid waste into said bottom's anus.

In other words, he pisses into the funnel, which drains into the tube, thus arriving at its internal destination. He then removes the apparatus and again inserts his own, pounding away at this cavernous sinkhole with reckless abandon, complete with the requisite dirty talk. You could almost say the story has a sappy ending. Or not.

Noah Returns

Following the release of season one on DVD, Noah's Arc—the story of four gay black males exploring love, friendship and relationships in Los Angeles—returns for its second season.

Noah's Arc follows Noah (Darryl Stephens), a flamboyant screenwriter, and his friends: Alex (Rodney Chester), Ricky (Christian Vincent) and Chance (Doug Spearman). Season two, which began on gay network Logo Wednesday, Aug. 9, promises to answer all of the questions raised in the first-season finale: Will Chance's new husband recover from his concussion? Will Alex's man Trey ever return from South Africa? Can Wade forgive Noah for his infidelity?

Guest stars scheduled for appearances on the breakout show include The Young and the Restless stars Keith Hamilton Cobb and Victoria Rowell, Raz B. and Rockmond Dunbar (Prison Break).

In addition to all-new weekly episodes, Noah's Arc: The Complete First Season DVD is available in stores and online at LOGOonline.com. The first season is also available for purchase on iTunes with second-season episodes available on the day of premiere.

Catch Noah's Arc Wednesday nights exclusively on Logo at 10 p.m. ET/PT. Check with your local cable company for availability. ▼

Sundance Channel Airs Reunion

In September 2005, an eight-part series chronicling the daily lives of four college students undergoing gender reassignment aired on the Sundance Channel. Following the lives of Raci, Gabbie, Lucas and T.J., Transgeneration garnered much appraisal, including winning the 2006 GLAAD Media Award for Outstanding Documentary. One year after the series was completed, the Sundance Channel revisits the subjects of the popular documentary in a reunion special.

Transgeneration Reunion, a half-hour special airing Monday, Aug. 28 at 10 p.m. e/p, will revisit Raci (male to female) and her new fiancé in Los Angeles; Gabbie (male to female), enjoying life post surgery in Boulder, Colo.; T.J. (female to male), preparing to leave Lansing, Michigan to return home to Cyprus; and Lucas (female to male), a graduate from Smith College now living in Oklahoma. Produced by World of Wonder, the special will air as part of DocDay, the Sundance Channel weekly destination featuring documentary films from noon to midnight every Monday.

"Sundance Channel and World of Wonder had invested so much in the lives of Raci, Gabbie, Lucas and T.J. that we were eager to see where they are a year later," said Laura Michalchysyn, executive vice president of programming and marketing for Sundance Channel. "Beginning with a reunion at the GLAAD Awards, we follow each of them into their respective lives which remain fascinating."

Insure Your Home, Auto, Life and Commercial Property

horoscopes

By Rev. Bill Morin

Leo

(July 23-August 22)

Financial aspects look amazing Aug. 19. Avoid being too pushy on the 22nd. Demands on your time seem overwhelming on the 29th. Labor-Day weekend yields a sizzling romantic encounter. Avoid bragging about career conquests on the 8th. Forgive an old grudge on the 12th.

Virgo

(August 23-September 22)

You'll dazzle superiors at work Aug. 16. New moon in your sign on the 23rd ends any relationship doubts. A family compromise is reached Sept. 1. Creative inspiration washes over you on the 5th. Lunar influences on the 10th say, "Don't go looking for love!"

Libra

(September 23-October 22)

A happy Libran glows, and you're simply incandescent. That love match reaches a new plateau Aug. 21. A getaway Aug. 23-25 is idyllic. Watch your spending Sept. 1. A promise should be kept on the 7th. Don't look for a financial quick fix on the 13th or 14th.

Scorpio

(October 23-November 21)

Mood swings may plague you Aug. 17. You'll "work the room" beautifully on the 24th. You get to outmaneuver a talented rival on the 30th. Be sensitive to the needs of others Sept. 2. Spend the 8th doing nothing. You'll need all your strength for the 9th and 10th.

Sagittarius

(November 22-December 21)

Career aspects soar as of Aug. 17. Love moves ever closer. Look to the 23rd for a chance meeting. Your intuition is super strong on the 28th. Accept that party invite for Sept. 4. Use extra cash on the 7th to pay off a nagging bill. Physical energies soar on the 13th.

Capricorn

(December 22-January 19)

Don't take on new projects until Aug. 20. Tensions on the home front ease after the 24th. A significant other shall need moral support on the 31st. Labor-Day getaway perks you up beautifully. Be sure to dress to the 9s for that gala on the 9th. Pictures will be taken.

Aquarius

(January 20-February 18)

Use charm instead of arm-twisting Aug. 16. Be completely truthful with a parental figure on the 22nd. The 29th looks to be a high-vibe, chaotic and very gratifying day. Planetary vibes Sept. 3rd say, "Watch your wallet." A deal with the boss gets sealed on the 11th.

Pisces

(February 19-March 19)

What a month, Pisces. Ninety percent of aspects look amazing. Aug. 23 is especially strong for beginning creative projects. You'll get to cut loose and party down Sept. 4. Rare Lunar Eclipse in your sign on the 7th signals the need to settle down. It's time to start running toward love.

Aries

(March 20-April 19)

Aug. 17-20 may prove to be slow going. The general pace picks up nicely on the 23rd. Move and speak slowly/deliberately on the 31st to get your point across. A potential benefactress enters the scene Sept. 6. You'll need tons of charm to help seal a major deal on the 12th.

Taurus

(April 20-May 20)

Keep saving for a rainy day, Taurus. Not all of your plans will be embraced Aug. 19. Physical energies dip on the 24th and 25th. An out-of-town trip Sept. 2-5 triggers future financial boom. Good news arrives via two phone calls on the 9th. Sleep patterns look jumbled on the 13th.

Gemini

(May 21-June 21)

You'll be buzzing like a bee all month long. Make time for romance Aug. 17. You'll need to tell a difficult truth on the 21st. You may choose to hibernate Sept. 2-3. You'll make an amazing first impression on the 6th. That marvelous sense of humor saves the day on the 14th.

Cancer

(June 22-July 21)

Ongoing home renovation makes you proud. Give your mate lots of space Aug. 19. The 25th is a remarkably low-key day. Your schedule is stretched to the max Sept. 1. Have that vehicle checked out on the 5th. Advertising/marketing ideas will bear fruit after the 9th.

Treasure Island Media is more a cult than a film studio.
-Mark Adams, Vidioview.com

Wow...ok, so I was at a friend's house over the weekend and we were watchin the Plantin Seed 2 video. I've never been so turned on before. I mean, the entire video is hot. Every scene literally had my [redacted] throbbing. The reason for this email though has to be that last scene between Jason Summers and Johnny Farrell. Johnny probably has the best ass I've ever seen in porn. It's like it was made for [redacted] I wanted to dive in the tv screen and [redacted] out myself. The whole scene is a challenge to slutty bottoms everywhere. He obviously enjoyed that Jason's [redacted] and he took that [redacted] like a champion (and what a [redacted] it was...damn) He made me want to [redacted] that ass, and for that I have to say great job to you. I mean, porn is porn, but for me to decide to send an email about a porn I saw 4 days ago that's still fresh in my memory means it was [redacted] hot. Thanks...and uh, when do I get to see more of Johnny's ass?

- Greg Sehns Jr., 22, Minneapolis, MN
