CASE CLOSED: NGRA Theft Suspect Pleads Guilty to Charges

Nearly six months after having over $20,000 in funds stolen from the BigHorn Rodeo, the case against the thief has finally been resolved and the Nevada Gay Rodeo Association will be paid back the money that was stolen.

On Sunday, April 4, the organizers of the NGRA's annual event discovered that the majority of the money collected at the BigHorn Rodeo had been stolen from a safe. Assistant Finance Manager, Alan Ross Stewart, was the primary suspect as he'd left a note reading, "I have a problem. I apologize for what I'm doing."

Charges were filed and the NGRA began a nationwide search for Stewart, who was reported to have a pattern of getting involved with bear-type men and then stealing from them. On June 11, Stewart returned to Las Vegas and contacted Gene Russell, his former partner and the Finance Manager for the BigHorn Rodeo (Russell has resigned the position). Russell contacted the authorities and Stewart was taken into custody.

Stewart appeared before Judge Joseph Bonaventure on June 29th, and NGRA President John Gomes also attended the court proceedings to represent the NGRA.

"He apparently wants to make a change for the better," said Gomes in the NGRA's monthly newsletter, "Of course time will tell."

Stewart pled guilty to the felony theft charges and on August 23rd, Stewart was sentenced. As part of a plea arrangement, he was sentenced to several years in jail, but the sentence was suspended and the time served will be probationary. The important part of the sentence, though, was that Stewart was ordered to repay $22,972.00 to the NGRA. He must make restitution over the next 33 months. If he fails to settle the debt, he will face harsher punishment.

"I want to thank everyone for keeping the faith," Gomes told members as he related the news of the restitution to the non-profit group, "I have truly learned the meaning of 'community' and I have learned the extent that our family arms are willing to reach. I can only hope that all of you are able to recognize that NGRA is truly blessed with love, not just from within but throughout the community." ▼

La Cage Celebrates 19th Anniversary

September 18 will mark the 19th anniversary of "An Evening at La Cage" in the Riviera Hotel-Casino. Headliner Frank Marino and the cast are marking the occasion with a party and several updates to the constantly evolving show.

If you haven't been to see the long-running female impersonation show recently, they've added new cast members to portray famous female singers and reworked some of the existing acts to reflect changes in popular culture.

Tickets for "La Cage" are available by calling the Riviera Hotel and Casino by calling (702) 794-9433. "La Cage" performs nightly (except Tuesdays) at 7:30. ▼

Hamburger Mary's Offers Aloha Fridays

Hamburger Mary's is offering a new weekly event on Friday evenings to begin the weekend on a tropical note. With special catering, drink specials and a relaxed atmosphere, Aloha Fridays will jump start your weekend from 5 to 9 p.m. each Friday.

Co-sponsored by QVegas, look for this event to attract a mix of folks ready to hula through a Vegas weekend. ▼

NEVADA NEWS

VOLUNTEER TO GET OUT THE VOTE

We've heard it so often, we've almost become immune to the reality of it – Nevada is a battleground state. What that means is that in terms of partisan politics, Nevada is split pretty much right down the middle and many races could go either way.

The Human Rights Campaign, the nation's largest gay political advocacy organization, has taken note and is doing everything it can to help elect gay and lesbian friendly candidates from the state of Nevada.

As part of the HRC's commitment to Nevada, they have recently added Joe Reubens as the Nevada State Organizer in their field team. Reubens will be working hard through the election to make sure that many gay and gay-friendly voters turn out at the polls this November and vote.

Reubens is currently seeking volunteer support for his efforts. HRC has arranged a 20-line phone banks for the next several weeks and Reubens hopes that with enough volunteer staff, they will be able to identify thousands of gay-friendly voters and encourage them to vote in the 2004 General Election.

Additionally, they plan to use volunteers in a number of other effective campaign strategies.

"As a progressive person,

I would like to invite you to help identify voters who are sensitive to LGBT issues," Reubens comments, "You can help by canvassing in your neighborhood, phone-banking from our headquarters, or coming to assist with office work. We need your help."

The Human Rights Campaign, a nonpartisan organization, is committed to making a difference. Nevada is a crucial state this election cycle, and we're going to be working hard every day to help elect fair-minded candidates – candidates that are committed to equal rights for everyone, regardless of sexual preference or identity.

"Now is your chance to participate in this historic election – even if you have never done anything like this before, now is the time to get involved," Said Reubens, "I will answer any questions you may have, and walk you through anything you might need help with."

Groups and organizations along with individuals who care about electing fair-minded candidates are welcome to participate.

If interested in volunteering or just getting more information, please email joe.reubens@hrc.org. ▼

SNAPI Holds Annual Meeting, Elects Officers

The Southern Nevada Association of Pride, Inc. (SNAPI) held their annual meeting on August 24 to elect new officers and establish committees for the 2005 Las Vegas Gay Pride Celebration. The Board of Directors includes many returning faces (directors serve three year terms) from last year's board which pulled SNAPI out of a $40,000 debt left by former president Josh "Sasha Scarlett" Ryan.

Additional business included discussions with the community about the vision and direction of the organization, a President's report on the state of the organization at the end of their fiscal year, and the official starting point for planning the 2005 Gay Pride Celebration, which takes place in May.

The new board for SNAPI includes: James Healey, President; Ernie Yuen, Vice-President; Keith Groteluschen, Secretary; John Brumley, Treasurer; Karsten T Brown, Parliamentarian; Michelle Bryant; Ricki Car-rasquillo; Nick Cenimo; John Gomes; Daniel Grevich; Ross Letica; and Bob Napierala.

The board also appointed chairpersons of the standing committees for the organization. Education, Keith Groteluschen; Entertainment, Nick Cenimos; Finance, John Brumley; Parade, Ernie Yuen; Logistics, Bob Napierala; Marketing, Daniel Grevich; Sponsorship, Nick Cenimos; and Volunteers, Ross Letica. ▼

Come Out, Come Out, Wherever You Are!

Annual NCOD Street Festival Returns

QVegas is once again teaming up with a number of local businesses and organizations to produce the annual National Coming Out Day Street Festival in the Fruit Loop. Begun in 2001 as a "block party" style event in celebration of the Human Rights Campaign's annual day for visibility, the event is quickly becoming one of the most anticipated social events of the year.

Like previous years, the NCOD Street Festival will be held, once again, in the parking lots outside FreeZone, Gipsy and what will soon become 8 1/2 Ultra Lounge, an area often referred to as the Fruit Loop. The festival will include a variety of entertainment from a temporary stage built just for the event and booths and games representing a variety of organizations, political groups, and businesses.

This year's event beneficiary is the QVegas Foundation, the recently formed non-profit organization affiliated with Stonewall Publishing, Inc., publishers of QVegas and Out Las Vegas. QVegas Foundation donates money and services to all charitable organizations serving the LGBT or HIV/AIDS community. QVegas Foundation will donate monies raised from the NCOD Street Festival to other local charities such as The Center and SNAPI.

"When we first started the NCOD Street Festival, it was with the goals of raising visibility for our community and offering ourselves and the participating bars a way to give back to their community," said Kelly McFarlane-Smith, "the positive and generous response we've had from so many businesses and organizations has really helped the event to grow and get better each year."

Although the Fruit Loop is already a well-known party destination for the community, NCOD takes the party outside at the busy intersection of Naples and Paradise. Since the mission of National Coming Out Day is raising visibility and awareness of the LGBT community, the street festival has succeeded in exposing thousands of locals and visitors to our thriving community.

The NCOD Street Festival will take place on Friday, October 15, beginning at 8 p.m. The festival is presented by QVegas magazine, Urban Fuel, Southern Nevada Association of Pride and Miller Lite.

More information will be made available at www.qvegas.com. ▼

Last year's massive block party event gathered an estimated 3,000 attendees with performances from local personalities.

THE FASHIONISTAS

It's not your father's erotic Las Vegas show!

Among the hype for the new alternative nightclub Krave, one of the exciting additions this venue is planning to bring to the Las Vegas Strip is a new contender for the title of sexiest and most risqué show in Las Vegas.

Based on the story from the award-winning adult film of the same name, The Fashionistas is the brainchild of Chippendale dancer turned actor/model turned massively successful adult film director and producer John Stagliano. The adult film took home ten AVN awards in 2003 for its high-budget and story-intense approach to kink.

The story of the show focuses on a young woman involved in a love triangle between a famous male fashion designer and her female boss. There isn't much dialogue to the show, but there are plenty of fetish fashions and dance.

"Back in 1983 when I produced my first porn video I was a professional dancer and what I really wanted to do was make enough money shooting porn so I could produce a dance show that used dance to tell a story, kind of like a musical, but with no singing, and no dialogue." Commented Stagliano, "Well I never felt ready to do that kind of show until now."

John Stagliano, whose residence is in Malibu Beach, is the new producer in town and is bringing the erotic fetish tale to the theatre. As the pendulum swings and Las Vegas is once again offering plenty of entertainment for mature adults – Stagliano's goal is to provide this type of experience with taste and quality production in a showroom custom-designed for The Fashionistas.

Don't get the wrong idea, Stagliano is not producing a sex show – the story will eliminate the physical intercourse of the movie and replace it with music and dance. For music lovers, this nearly 90-minute dance musical show will rock you. The songs include: "Models" an original song by Montreal, "Sacred Ground" an original song by Mistress Mynx, "Jesse's Blue" an original song by John Stagliano and John Further, "Confusion" an original song by John Further, and "I Am One" an original song by Javier Calderon.

Well known tunes in the show include: "Justify My Love" and "Erotica" by

Madonna, "Bring Me to Life" and "My

Immortal" by Evanescence, "Feelin' Love" by Paula Cove, "Ils" by No Soul, "Rockit" by Herbie Hancock, "Smack My Bitch Up," by Prodigy, "Crawl Away" and "Die Eier" by Tool, "I Must Increase My Bust" by Lord of Acid, "Bad Things" by Tricky, "Blow Out," "Trip I Like to Do" and "Bad Stone" by The Crystal Method and, last but not least, "Whole Lotta Love" by Led Zeppelin.

Dance, video and music will carry along the show, but as the title implies, much of the focus is on fashion.

"There are two fashion shows presented in the context of the story. One is a normal high fashion show with some wild designs and some more practical but sexy designs. Later there is a fetish fashion show, where extraordinary fetish clothes of all kinds will be shown." Explains Stagliano, "There is also a 'Chameleons' fashion line presented in the show. These are the inventive designs of the young girl in the story. They are conservative women's clothes that can be changed by pulling a string or some type of action that makes the skirt much tighter and shorter and the tops much smaller and sexier. Now the woman wearing this design is ready to hit the bars after work."

Still, a show based on an adult film is bound to raise a few eyebrows. Stagliano has told reporters that the show will feature less skin than other Las Vegas revues such as La Femme, but that the sensuality and impressions will be deeper and more impacting. Unlike the similarly risqué show Zumanity, this one will focus on telling a story rather than a collection of specialty acts like acrobats or contortionists.

"I've heard the comment more than once that you forget about the fact that the dancers are topless after the first two minutes of a Vegas show because the girls are always topless." Stagliano suggests, "There is little dramatic revealing, almost no tease, and very low brow intelligence behind the sexuality." He hopes to change all that in The Fashionistas.

The dance musical with a cast of 20 will have some of the most talented dancers in Las Vegas. The Fashionistas has been described as "one of the most sexually brave and erotic live performances you'll ever see."

The cast includes Enrique Lugo, Marceea Moreno, Kelly Adkins, Dela, Michelle, Marie, Amonda Nowak, Rachelle Fournier, Jennifer Rohlman, Tiffany Adams, Holley Steele, Alexandra Zevalking, Danielle Watts, Jill Crook, Jeffrey deBarathy, Mario Navarro, Ottavio, Stan Tudor, J.C. Crawford and Robb Sapienza. The production team includes John Stagliano, Yanco Inone, Nick Navarro, Enrique Lugo, Jose Luis Vinas, Jose Dornini and Dale Larsen.

Tickets for The Fashionistas can be purchased for $49.95 or $59.95 plus tax. All seating is reserved. Call (702) 836-0833 for information or reservations. Show times are Monday thru Saturday at 8 p.m. Sundays are dark. See fashionistastheshow.com or kravelasvegas.com. ▼

TONGUE IN CHEEK

BY KEVIN ISOM

Reliable as the novelty item in my bedside stand is long. Welcoming as the waitresses at Waffle House on a Sunday morning.

As gay folks, our children are often of the feathered, furred and finned variety, and we trust them to always take our minds away from the troubled places where adult minds sometimes must go. Places like work, and paying the mortgage, and breaking up.

We take special care of even the smallest of our pets. And we mourn their passage with particular attention.

After several years of swimming lazily in a large glass bowl, my bright blue fish Fred passed away last week. My boyfriend found him, and he assured me there was no evidence of feline foul play. It was just his time.

I'd been occupied with the coming-out of the Governor of New Jersey, when suddenly something that really mattered was staring me in the face. I put aside the debate as to whether Governor McGreevey was a proud gay American, a politician using gayness as a shield for scandal, or just a sad man facing the boundaries of the closet.

Sure, he had a brain the size of a ballpoint pen. My fish, that is, not the Governor of New Jersey.

But he was Fred, named after the never-seen brother of Audrey Hepburn's Holly Golightly character in Breakfast at Tiffany's. I always identified with Holly, so the name seemed appropriate. (Yes, I earned my gay card...)

So what to do when Fred passed away? Shred pillows, like Audrey did in the movie? (If you're straight, and I just gave away part of the movie, mea culpa.) What would be an appropriate way to honor my finned little companion? The answer was obvious. I dashed off a eulogy, and I promptly emailed it out to my closest friends. (Yes, I do that sort of nutty thing, so they were probably not too surprised...)

"It is with great sadness," I to his bowl on the bookshelf, as clumps of black fur on the shelf underneath (sometimes caught in the duct tape I placed there as discouragement) seemed to indicate.

"Fred would always come to the surface when called with food, and sometimes even just with a tap on the glass (Pavlov works for fish, the same as with men). He was a friendly fish – a lover, not a fighter, despite his breed.

"Fred was with us for three cause of death was probably, simply, old age.

"That being said, he was a lovely fish, and he will be missed. Donations may be made in Fred's honor to the Stop Captain D's Memorial Foundation."

After I sent the email, I had a martini, stared at the vacant spot on my bookshelf where Fred's bowl used to be, and, for a few minutes, I cried.

Fortunately, my boyfriend's shoulder was conveniently nearby. I looked up at him through the Vaseline haze of tears and said, "You know you should be PLEASED I get upset over the death of a fish. It bodes well for you."

He looked at me funny, the kind of look that says "I may be marrying a crazy person someday," but I think he understood.

Farewell, dear Fred. There may be a Fred III in the near future, because life goes on, and I know I'll have to liberate another member of your species from the wretched confines of a pet store. Just like I did with you, I'll put my finger to the glass and see which fish comes most quickly--sort of the same technique I used to find a boyfriend. And I will care for Fred III as well as I cared for you.

But no other fins could ever be as blue. ▼

A Farewell to Fins

wrote, "that I must share the news that Fred II, my Siamese fighting fish (also known as a betta), is no longer with us.

"As you may know, Fred II was the successor to Fred I (who went to his reward during my move to my house, when I mistakenly thought it would be a good idea to take the furniture from the apartment and come back for the cats and Fred I, leaving Fred I's bowl on the kitchen counter).

"Fred II was a good fish, a colorful fish, and simply loads of fun for the kitties to watch. Miranda made many unsuccessful attempts to get and one half years. Since most bettas in pet stores are at least six months old, that means that Fred lived a life of at least four years. Since the average lifespan for a betta, according to most authorities, is only two to three years tops, Fred was clearly a happy and contented geezer of a fish.

"The end came on rather suddenly, with Fred eating less over the last week and refusing to eat the last two days. Possibly the sight of grown men waving cast iron and martini glasses around at my birthday party was too much for him, but the likeliest

HOROSCOPES

BY REV. BILL MORIN

Virgo

(August 23-September 22)

This month gets off to a sluggish start but is up & running by September 21st. That Full/Harvest Moon on the 28th helps open financial floodgates. Don't mess with authority figures on October 3rd. It'll take more than charm to win a new client on the 9th. Stick close to home on the 12th.

Libra

(September 23-October 22)

Momentum steadily builds & by September 24th, four planets will be transiting your sign. That's a lot of energy to play with. People will be on your side by the 30th. October 5th proves tricky where legal maneuvers are concerned. Solar Eclipse in Libra on the 13th lights romantic fire in major fashion.

Scorpio

(October 23-November 21)

You might not feel in control of life until September 20th. Avoid acting rashly on the 25th. That dazzling smile proves invaluable on the 30th. Office politics could drain you on October 7th. Take the "high road" to a lucrative business deal on the 12th. It's the only way to go.

Sagittarius

(November 22-December 21)

Don't splurge on luxury items on September 19th. A better deal comes your way on the 27th. A favor granted on October 7th pays you dividends for years. Overnight getaway on the 9th/10th is invigorating. Libra Solar Eclipse on the 13th heightens the demand for your services.

Capricorn

(December 22-January 19)

Don't bite off more than can be chewed, especially on September 20th. Physical energies won't totally rebound until the 26th. Business trip on October 2nd bears much fruit. Don't discount the advice of a co-worker on the 10th. Listen closely to what mate has to say on the 14th.

Aquarius

(January 20-February 18)

Career frustrations on the 17th won't last long. Don't let your temper "rule" on the 22nd. A romantic getaway October 1st-3rd adds much zip to that sluggish love match. Start planning that Halloween bash by the 8th. You'll need to sit in silence on the 11th no matter how difficult it is.

Pisces

(February 19-March 19)

The month looks incredibly fast paced, especially September 20th & 21st. Be sure to take "notes" on the 24th. Let the boss be "right" on the 29th. October 5th proves unexpected cash bonus. Family members may cause turmoil on the 11th. Don't let them rattle your "cage." You're beyond that.

Aries

(March 20-April 19)

Creative juices flow especially strong on September 17th & 18th. Common courtesy goes a long way on the 25th. Have your vehicles fluids checked by the 30th. Cash flow dwindles on October 7th but don't let it spook you. The 10th looks best for a lazy "do nothing" day. Try it & you may like it.

Taurus

(April 20-May 20)

The urge to hide on September 18th is strong but not very practical. Use the 22nd-24th for cleaning up that "mess" and damage control. Your expertise comes in handy on October 3rd. Laughter proves the best medicine on the 10th. Relationship issues take top priority on the 13th & 14th.

Gemini

(May 21-June 21)

There's much to do before that dream vacation. September 19th proves to be a surprise social highlight. Praise from a higher up has you feeling great on the 29th. Don't leave town on October 3rd. Speak your mind on the 7th but with diplomacy. That stiff neck may kick back in on the 12th.

Cancer

(June 22-July 22)

An incredibly active/fulfilling period starts on September 20th. Call in old favors on the 27th. Don't let jealous competitors ruin your day on October 5th. Networking and "schmoozing" events are highlighted on the 9th & 10th. Eclipse energies on the 13th could have you "howling at the moon."

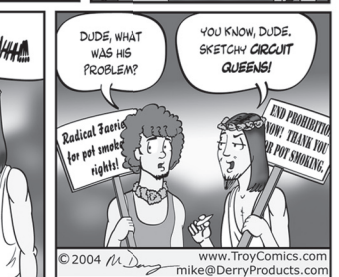

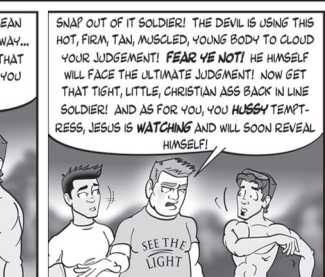

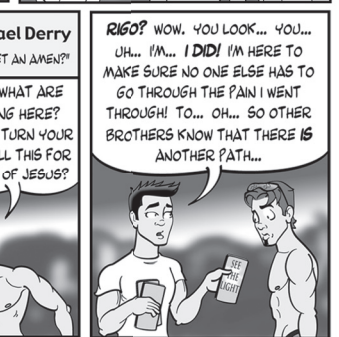

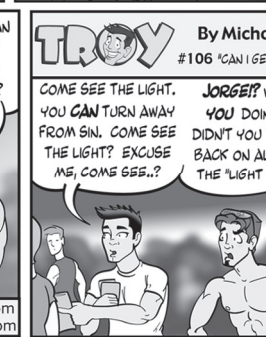

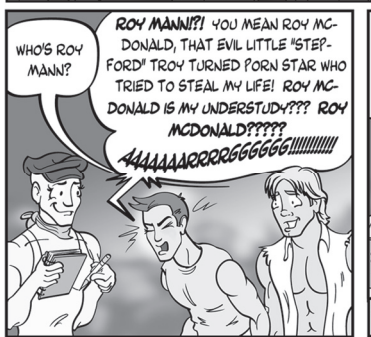

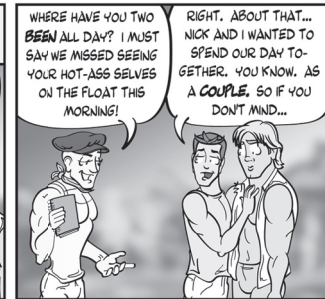

Leo

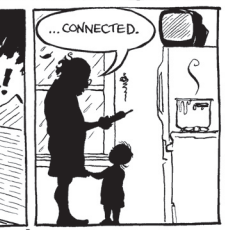

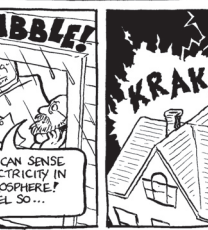

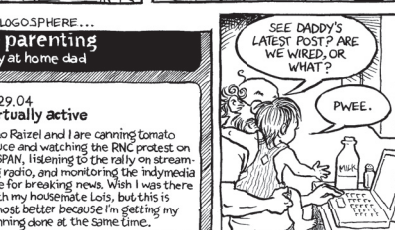

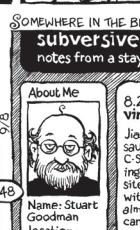

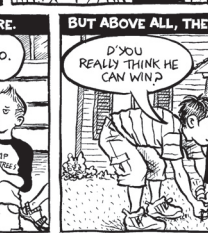

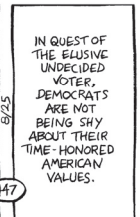

(July 23-August 22)

Financial aspects take priority and mostly look fine all month long. September 19th provides you with a surprise last minute invite. Accept it! A friendship begins in early October that will last "forever." A little humility will help your cause on the 8th. Solar Eclipse on the 13th makes you hard to resist.

Dykes To Watch Out For by Alison Bechdel

PEEPING WITH TOM BY TOM MOILANEN

So long, farewell, auf Wiedersehen, goodnight.

I hate to be such a glaring disappointment but for the first time in six years I am not going to review anything. If you're expecting lurid commentary and graphic depictions, forget it. Scorching coverage of naked men? Ain't gonna happen. A peek behind the scenes of the gay porn industry? Check me out next month.

Before you decide to use this page in much the same manner as the Sears and Roebuck catalogue, hang in there a moment. Subdue your lascivious inclinations long enough to at least feign a little depth. I could use a smut fix as much as the next guy, but stay tuned - I'm about to go where no porn critic has gone before.

My editor and friend of the last three years, Jere Keys, is leaving Las Vegas; and, with it, his gig at Stonewall Publishing. I have often made snide remarks in print concerning liberal activism, but there comes a time when a guy needs to do the right thing. Sarcasm, be damned. Cynicism, be gone. Tommy B. Goode.

I know several activists—gay and otherwise—who are in the game solely for the power trip, and to a lesser extent, the money. Jere is not one of them. I have never seen him behave in an unprofessional manner, detected any hidden motives, or witnessed anything but a sincere regard for others. I am slightly Right of center, he is slightly Left. Our views differ. But we find common ground in the desire to offer our time and efforts writing, publishing, and running businesses which, ideally, make Gay Vegas a better place.

It has often been a standing joke that most people who pick up these magazines make a beeline for the sex ads, take note of the bar scene, and use the articles to line the birdcage. Kids, if this describes you—if your notions of being gay revolve around sex, drugs, deception, and generally sticking your middle finger in the face of Middle America—you had better realize your childish, self-absorbed, immature behavior is possible because guys like Jere had the balls to disclose themselves on the national stage with true pride and dignity.

Anything worthwhile comes with a price, particularly freedom. Have you ever sat down with a state or local leader to discuss policies regarding gay marriage? Have you ever organized fund-raisers to help sick people, or to feed someone with AIDS? Have you ever served on a committee which sponsors events that provides others with entertainment? I bet you haven't. I haven't either. But Jere has. Remember that the next time you scoff at authority while sipping a five-dollar beer in a place where you can be free to be yourself. Guys like Jere paid your cover charge. Be grateful.

I wouldn't have a forum if it weren't for gay activism. I write tons of stuff as a Communication Major at UNLV, but none of it is as fun or as personally rewarding as writing "Peeping With Tom." Ironically, I razz the very people who give me access. Maybe I'm the token conservative. Maybe they let me stick around because I buy advertising. Or maybe they ask me to contribute articles such as "Confessions of a Gay Republican" because they're fair.

By its very nature, activism walks a fine line between altruism and demagoguery. It is also inherently imbued with a conflict of interest, in that if the people whom the activist represents overcome whatever their problems are, the activist is out of a job. In other words, if he wins, he loses. This opens the field to thieves and liars of all sorts, and makes it extremely difficult to distinguish between the good guys and the bad guys.

I have often defended Christianity when it is attacked due to frauds like Jim Bakker or hypocrites like Jimmy Swaggart by claiming that a good thing can be used for evil purposes by evil people. Don't throw out the baby with the bathwater, as my dad would say. The same applies to activism. For every Al Sharpton there's a Ward Connerly. For every Sasha Scarlett there's a Jere Keys.

You may wonder why Jere's leaving. More money and a gig at The Advocate? Nope. Staff position with the HRC? Guess again. He's moving back home to help his family in a critical time of need. It is this kind of selfless decision that provides all the credibility I need to spot an activist who places his calling above himself.

Best of everything to you, Jere. You deserve nothing less.

If you have an event to be listed in our calendar, please email details to calendar@qvegas.com at least a month in advance.
