Beat WITH THE Ugly Schtick

By Jon Afalla

I'm no authority on fashion. A look at my wardrobe will attest to this fact. In my closet resides hanger after hanger of track pants and jackets, numerous hooded sweatshirts, frayed pants and collared shirts about five years old. I know. I need to update my ensemble stat.

But despite lacking clothing that satisfies industry standards, I'm uncontrollably drawn to fashion. I stare longingly at the clothing spreads in GQ, Details, even Cosmo. I walk by high-end clothing stores and consider selling my Honda so I could have a nice jacket. Or maybe just a scarf given my car's ever-decreasing value. And I tune in every week to ABC's new comedy, Ugly Betty, homage to the fashion magazine world.

But it's not the fashion that grabs my attention on the show. That's more of an added bonus. An afterthought. What really speaks to me is the cattiness, the backhanded compliments, the singling out of the fashion outsider—you know, your typical, garden-variety gay, only in television form. Call it a guilty pleasure, but I can't get enough of the vacuous fluff—albeit humorous—that makes up Ugly Betty.

The show, still early in its first season, introduced to viewers Betty Suarez (America Ferrera, Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants and Real Women Have Curves), an awkward, poorly dressed girl trying to break into publishing. After being met with contention by a male fashion mogul, she is given a second chance to work as the assistant to Daniel Meade (Eric Mabius), newly elected editor-in-chief at leading fashion magazine, Mode. Betty sticks out like a weed and everyone around her eagerly anticipates her defeat. Feeling sorry for her comes naturally.

If you're thinking, this story sounds familiar or where have I heard this story described before?, don't worry. I had the same first impression. A fashion victim trying to break into the publishing industry by becoming an assistant at one of the leading fashion magazines in the nation. The Devil Wears Prada. Everyone around said fashion victim looks to her with contempt, waiting for her to realize she's out of her element. The Devil Wears Prada. Cruel humor runs rampant. The Devil Wears Prada.

But despite having staggering similarities to the hit summer movie, Ugly Betty also has unique qualities that make the show shine on its own. For one, the lead character belongs to a minority group. She's not a white girl with straight blonde hair and a trim waist. Betty is a svelte girl with unmanageable brown hair and comes from a lower middle-class Hispanic family. Ferrera radiates as Betty, ranging in personality from clumsy and awkward to determined and proud. Week after week, her humorous performances validate her as a rising star. The show also adds an element of mystery by introducing an anonymous bandaged woman who attempts to uncover publisher Bradford Meade (Alan Dale) as a murderer. Bradford, in turn, also rendezvous with another mysterious character to cover up a big secret. Think prime-time soap opera.

And what fashion world is complete without high-riding bitches? In this case, the crowns go to Creative Director Wilhelmina Slater (played by a fierce and fabulous Vanessa Williams) and secretarial social climber Amanda (Becki Newton). Passed up for the editor-in-chief position, Wilhelmina constantly schemes against Daniel, who was handed the position by his father. Amanda, on the other hand, sees Betty as a thorn in her side and uses every available resource to continue bedding Daniel, a known player.

The one-liners and nasty dialogue will definitely inspire a laugh or two. Amanda, a blonde airhead pronouncing "hola" as "ho-la" and correcting Betty's father by saying "It has an 'h'" particularly sticks out in my mind.

Aside from the catty dialogue and backstabbing, the series also sports notable gay characters. Betty's nephew, Justin (played by Mark Indelicato), plays a flamboyant boy concerned with all things fashionable and oozes gay stereotypes (i.e. he was a dancing Gene Kelly on the Halloween episode). Wilhelmina also has a gay assistant, Marc (Michael Urie). He plays an equally queeny character, complete with biting sarcasm and a bitchy misdemeanor. Although, some of the gay portrayals are over-the-top at times, the depictions of gay characters as normal, accepted members of society are inspiring and innovative. Justin, even at his flamiest, is seen as an eccentric kid, never once being referred to or chastised as gay. Now that's saying something!

Catch Ugly Betty on ABC Thursdays at 8 p.m. To watch past full episodes of the show, log onto www.abc.com. Also visit www.bettysuarez.com for a look into the character's life and career advice. ▼

HOLDING UP

MANHUNT.NET OVERTAKES GAY.COM AS LEADING LGBT WEB SITE IN THE UNITED STATES

Manhunt.net recently became the top LGBT Web site in the country, edging out previous leader Gay.com by over two percentage points in market share. According to the latest results by Hitwise.com, a Web-tracking agency, Manhunt.net scored 21.4 percent market share of the online LGBT community in the final quarter of 2006, a 5 percent rise from last year (16.62). Gay.com fell from 32.7 percent market share in 2005 to 19.01, losing close to 13 percent of their hold of the online LGBT community.

"The tortoise has finally passed the hare," announced Jonathon Crutchley, a founding partner of the Boston-based Manhunt.net. "We did it the old-fashioned way, building a business city by city, making ourselves part of the local gay communities through partnerships with gay nightclubs, bars, businesses and especially through outreach to the health community. We didn't have millions of dollars of other people's money to throw at marketing."

Director of Marketing Phil Henricks added, "Manhunt.net is the little site that could. When I joined the team four years ago, we were a popular site in the Northeast, preparing to launch in California. Now we have over 1,000,000 members worldwide."

Since its inception as a phone line dating service that still exists today, Manhunt.net has grown into a virtual gay microcosm that reaches all 50 states, Canada, Mexico, Australia, Brazil and the U.K. Manhunt.net continued its growth by launching in all of Western Europe. The site adds about 10,000 new members every week and bills itself as the world's fastest growing gay Web site.

It is primarily geared to facilitate gay male sexual hook ups, but has grown into a place where friendships and serious relationships can begin.

"In rural areas especially, Manhunt.net has become the neighborhood bar," confirmed Larry Basil, another founding partner. "Not everyone logs on for the quick hookup; though we do encourage members to be as free, honest and sexual as they want to be.

"Part of our success," he continued, "is that Manhunt.net does not try to be all things to all people. We are a focused site for gay men who want to chat with and meet other gay men. There are no politics, fashion or gossip on Manhunt.net. We keep things simple; a strategy that has worked for us."

A monthly membership fee of $10.00 entitles members to unlimited access on Manhunt.net 24 hours a day, seven days a week. A free option is available for those who want to get a taste of what the site is about. Over 22,000 men are on the site at any one time each night.

"Because they are a public company, Gay.com is forced to hide their sexuality and racier content," Henricks continued. "Luckily we don't have shareholders to answer to, only members. To remain on top, we will continue what we have been doing; listening to our members, reaching out to the gay community and keeping the site simple and focused. 2007 will be our best year yet." ▼

WIGGLE. CUT. WIGGLE. CUT.

I know too much for someone who admittedly watches little television.

This is no great accomplishment, mind you. My junior high school band director used to call the tube the “idiot box,” at which time I thought he’d fit perfectly into one. I have since, however, become the same crusty old fart as he, suspicious of contemporary culture and intolerant of human stupidity.

I think, therefore I ignore TV.

One of the things of which I’m all too aware, for example, is the advertising for a line of videos called Guys Gone Wild. These little pseudo-porn flicks feature drunken bimbos yanking up their skirts and brassieres, showing the world their naked bodies as well as their empty heads. The footage isn’t sexual or erotic, nor is it even well produced. Nevertheless, they’ve become mighty popular over the past few years, which should be yet another indication as to why I’ve pretty much divorced myself from the rest of humanity.

So what would any good, successful capitalist do with a winning product?

Come up with something else to make a buck, such as the counterpart to these movies called Guys Gone Wild, that’s what.

The company is known as Mantra Films, whatever that means. Maybe they sit around the boardroom chanting slogans like, “The American public will buy anything, the American public will buy anything, the American public will buy anything.” Then they fire up the incense and the replicator and burn a million copies to the tune of a quarter each and sell ‘em for 25 bucks.

Do the math. The profit margin is enough to turn me Marxist.

In any event, the Guys Gone Wild series—of which there are six installments—recently expanded its selections by two. Assuming you’re not a UNLV student and can add single digits in your head, that would bring the total to eight. The newcomers are named Hunk Hotel and All- is truly amazing. The chicks from the cast and crew of Girls Gone Wild act as cheerleaders for these college-aged goofballs, urging them to perform various acrobatic feats like The Helicopter, in which they swivel their hips like they were using a hula hoop to make the dinkus go “wap wap wap” like the rotor blades on a whirlybird.

The dudes then swill a few more brewskis, brag about their sexual prowess and take a shower.

Good Lord, I do that at home, which might explain why my mirror is shattered and my cat is on Prozac.

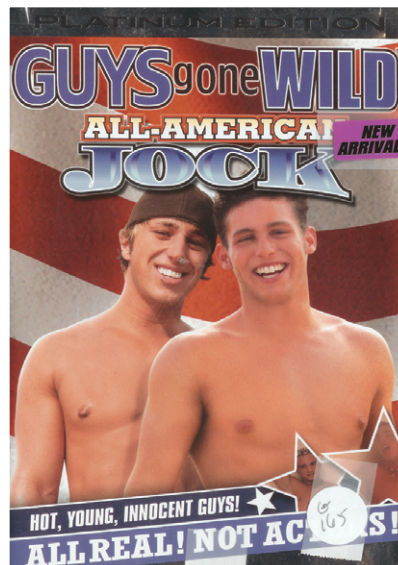

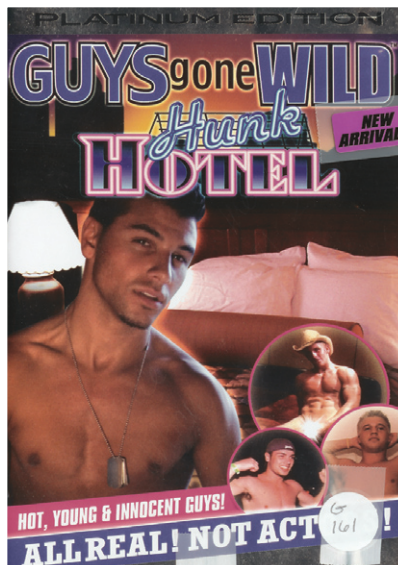

There is no sex of any sort in these things, although one of them—I know not which—features a guy spanking it to orgasm. One thing I do know, though, is he’s the least cute of the bunch. Go figure.

In all fairness, the Guys Gone Wild collection has a certain charm, albeit more of a novelty than a thrill. They’d be fine if you rented them as a precursor to porn, kind of like a tossed salad before the meal. Or, should I say, like a tossed salad before you get your salad tossed? (I don’t need to hear about the dressing, or the cheese, thank you very much.)

I have often complained that a lot of porn carries little context, which is the key element in creating a fantasy theme. Solo/amateur stuff is particularly lacking in situational framing, so in this sense Guys Gone Wild offers more than most. It may, in fact, spend a bit too much time setting up the scene, which is a redundancy of the highest order in that the set-up is the scene. You get the cup of soup but not the meat and potatoes.

Draw the same analogy to television and it’s no wonder we’re intellectually malnourished. ▼

American Jock, which brings to mind the notion that titles aren’t protected by copyright, as both of these have been used by the real porn industry at some point in its relatively short lifespan.

What happens in these soft-core, practically PG-13 rated vignettes?

Not a hell of a lot, unless you count massive consumption of beer and references to football as credentials.

Much of this stuff is shot on spring break in predictable locations such as South Padre Island and Fort Lauderdale. The guys get hammered, pull down their boxers and wiggle their dinkus for the camera. Cut. Next scene: more wiggling of the dinkus. Cut. Wiggle. Cut. Wiggle. Roll credits.

That’ll be $24.95, please.

Aside from the fact that I just used the word “dinkus” and got away with it, this

NEW OLD SAYINGS FOR THE BITTER HOMOSEXUAL

The grass is always greener on the other side, but if your boyfriend has been hanging out there, the grass is also younger, fitter, better employed, more popular and gifted with a raging sex drive.

Never eat yellow snow, unless you're a polar bear and into water sports.

A bird in the hand is worth two in the bush, but like an Aborigine you left the bush years ago, so who cares?

Don't borrow trouble. Cause it.

You can't have your cake and eat it too, because then you might gain six pounds and no one will ever love you. Ice cream, however, is an entirely different food, as are Twinkies, Ding Dongs, Ring Dings, Ho Ho's and M&M's (original and peanut).

When life hands you lemons, make lemonade, mix it with hemlock and force life to drink it Socrates-style.

Look both ways before crossing the road, but if you're a chicken, don't bother crossing. The hawk will bring the other side to you.

The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world. The hand that robs it gets 15 to 20.

What will be, will be, but you won't be in his will if you cheat on him.

Don't shit where you eat, even if he's into that weird German stuff.

Better the devil you know than the devil you don't. This is because the devil you know is also up to no good and you have plenty of dirt on him. The devil you don't might tell your boyfriend.

Do unto others as you'd have them do unto you (does not apply to tops).

When it rains, it pours, so play that way in the shower.

Wherever you go, there you are ... and man, are you fucked.

You can't teach an old dog new tricks. He has to start paying for them at some point.

Curiosity killed the cat, satisfaction brought it back, so later that week the cat went out dancing again and huffed a lot more curiosity, this time passing out on the bathroom floor. Satisfaction was pissed and decided the cat would need to start learning its own lessons if it was ever going to grow up, so he left with a young cub and let the cub deal with the cat.

There's no use crying over spilt milk; spilt white Russians, however, are worth every tear.

Speak of the devil and the devil appears, angry that you were speaking about him because he doesn't need any of that high-school drama bullshit, and often bringing along the devil you don't know (see above).

Too many cooks spoil the broth: limit your orgies to five.

Don't count your chickens before they hatch. Wait until you're sure they're 18.

There's more than one way to skin a cat, but the best is while it's high on curiosity.

If you love something, let it go. If it loves you, it will come back, stopping at the other side along the way and forgetting you ever existed.

The postman always rings twice. No, wait. That's a movie. ▼

POLITICAL GAMES

By Jon Afalla

Normally politics bore me. That shouldn't suggest, however, that I'm not involved in the political process. I know the issues. I vote. I support certain causes. But I'm not the first one to run to a political rally or fundraiser. And movies about politics usually bore me even more.

The same can't be said for Poster Boy, a political drama from Genius Products and here! Films. With Poster Boy, I don't have to constantly stare at my watch wondering when Harrison Ford is going to, surprise, save the hijacked Air Force One or when Sigourney Weaver realizes that she's doing a political movie and not a sci-fi action flick (a genre she should have clearly stuck to). I actually enjoyed this movie. I could relate.

Poster Boy centers on Henry Kray, played by cutie Matt Newton, who leads a private gay life. He goes out to gay clubs. He has sexual trysts with men. But he's the son of a conservative U.S. Senator (Hence the low-key extra curriculars.), played by Michael Lerner.

Just starting his college career, Henry meets 28-year-old liberal activist Anthony (Jack Noseworthy) and has a one-night stand with him. After Henry leaves without saying goodbye, Anthony decides to out him in front of his father, ruining the senator's re-election campaign, which Anthony vehemently opposes. But as the two grow closer, Anthony must decide if his political convictions are stronger than his newfound feelings.

Sound familiar? The film is based on the true-life story of Mary Cheney, homosexual daughter of Republican Vice President Dick Cheney.

The movie poignantly portrays the conflict often occurring between politics and sexuality. Newton does a fantastic job as a son struggling with being a dutiful child to a right-wing politician and living a free and open life. On the one hand, he wants to strengthen the already-shaky relationship he has with his father and support him in his political endeavor. On the other hand, he wants to live a gay life transcendent of secrecy.

Noseworthy portrays a dejected gay man searching desperately for a relationship. His character represents the archetypal gay male—hoping his sexual encounters will develop into something greater and not add to his growing list of one-night stands. When an attempt to out Henry and ruin Senator Kray's campaign blows up in his face, his feelings of dejection turn into bitter remorse.

Valerie Geffner plays Anthony's best friend and roommate, Izzie. Her performance as a manic HIV-positive girl preferring antidepressants to emotion proves both noteworthy and haunting. Standout scenes include a dismal therapy session and hopeful romantic encounter.

Karen Allen (Indiana Jones, Scrooged) shines as Eunice Kray, the bored senator's wife who realizes her husband cares only about his career and political agenda. She radiates hopelessness, as anyone stuck in a relationship where growth or opinions are not an option can relate. Initially coming off as a hardened housewife, she later liberates herself, gaining insight on the relationship with her husband and her position in life.

Rounding out the cast, Lerner does a remarkable job as a coldhearted senator, concerned only with the polls, in turn neglecting his family's welfare. When news of his son's sexuality unfolds during a campus speech, the senator opts to slant the news in his favor rather than embracing his son's orientation. Go politics!

Poster Boy won the Grand Jury Award for Outstanding Screenwriting (Ryan Shiraki and Lecia Rosenthal) at L.A. Outfest in 2004. Don't miss out on this winner!

The DVD is available now for $24.95. ▼

horoscopes

By Rev. Bill Morin

Scorpio

(October 23-November 21)

New moon in your sign Nov. 20 helps smooth a career transition. Aspects look fairly calm until the 30th. You may be a bit accident-prone Dec. 5, so please watch it! Don't blow that budget on holiday shopping come the 11th. Avoid tempting sweets on the 13th.

Sagittarius

(November 22-December 21)

Your physical energy levels soar Nov. 21. A financial mentor enters your life around the 24th. That new relationship has you smiling all the time. Dec. 8 and 9 are best for painting the town red. A New Year's party invite arrives on the 15th and proves too tempting to resist.

Capricorn

(December 22-January 19)

It's business as usual for the latter half of November. The 19th and 27th looks especially fine for exerting your influence at the workplace. Financial aspects catch fire after the full moon Dec. 4. Stay out of that family squabble on the 10th; meddling will only make things worse.

Aquarius

(January 20-February 18)

In your case, it's okay to mix business with pleasure, as long as you keep the clients satisfied. Dental work Nov. 17 forces you to lay low for two days. Most everyone will be on your side on the 30th. Avoid the party scene Dec. 8. Try a game of chance on the 11th.

Pisces

(February 19-March 19)

Work-related matters shall have you on the go right up until Nov. 22. A turkey-day gathering brings mixed results. Minor delays test your patience on the 29th. Full moon Dec. 4th heats up your romantic nature. Offer no opinions on the 12th unless they're requested.

Aries

(March 20-April 19)

This period starts off bumpy, but aspects smooth out by the 21st. A financial windfall on the 28th allows you to buy a new toy. It's essential to speak your mind Dec. 1. It's time to take that special love interest up to the next level. So, have a spare house key made by the 11th, OK?

Taurus

(April 20-May 20)

You'll look marvelous Nov. 18, so make sure people get to see. A working getaway from the 24th-27th yields exceptional results. A potential new love interest enters the picture Dec. 3. Please give this one half a chance! Avoid clashing with a roommate on the 5th.

Gemini

(May 21-June 21)

Planetary aspects look hot and cold for you all month long. Career aspects look quite solid, but you must cut down on impulse buying. It's best to wait until after Nov. 29 to move. Full moon in your sign Dec. 4 makes you a sex magnet. Help console a grieving bud on the 10th.

Cancer

(June 22-July 21)

Contractual agreements are best if completed by Nov. 20. Take the 26th as a do-nothing respite. Holiday gift shopping Dec. 2nd provides much joy. Your creativity absolutely dazzles on the 7th. News from a sibling on the 12th brings both relief and satisfaction. Celebrate it!

Leo

(July 23-August 22)

Attention to details and prep work consume your time until Nov. 21st. That bash you host on the 23rd will be the talk of the town. Don't let superiors work your nerves on the 30th. Prepare for a red-hot romantic encounter Dec. 2. Don't hog the work spotlight on the 13th or 14th.

Virgo

(August 23-September 22)

As usual, your services will be in great demand. Don't spread yourself too thin Nov. 18. The 20th-22nd proves best for self-promotion. Signing up for winter classes is a great idea. Full moon on the 4th triggers much-needed changes on the home front.

Libra

(September 23-October 22)

Little shall go well from Nov. 15-19. After that, lunar aspects clear away most obstacles. Your artistic flair will be quite evident all over town. Good financial news at month's end triggers tears of joy. Be sure to celebrate your birthday in the most glorious way possible.

Treasure Island Media is more a cult than a film studio.
-Mark Adams, Vidioview.com

Wow...ok, so I was at a friend's house over the weekend and we were watchin the Plantin Seed 2 video. I've never been so turned on before. I mean, the entire video is hot. Every scene literally had my [redacted] throbbing. The reason for this email though has to be that last scene between Jason Summers and Johnny Farrell. Johnny probably has the best ass I've ever seen in porn. It's like it was made for [redacted] I wanted to dive in the tv screen and [redacted] out myself. The whole scene is a challenge to slutty bottoms everywhere. He obviously enjoyed that Jason's [redacted] and he took that [redacted] like a champion (and what a [redacted] it was...damn) He made me want to [redacted] that ass, and for that I have to say great job to you. I mean, porn is porn, but for me to decide to send an email about a porn I saw 4 days ago that's still fresh in my memory means it was [redacted] hot. Thanks...and uh, when do I get to see more of Johnny's ass?

- Greg Sehns Jr., 22, Minneapolis, MN
