Death Outside Krave Ruled A Homicide

The Clark County coroner's office has ruled that the death of Peter Lawrence, outside the Krave nightclub on Nov. 14 was as a result of asphyxia.

Lawrence had purportedly caused a disturbance in the club on the evening of Nov. 14 after confronting a female acquaintance who claimed to have a restraining order against him.

Following the struggle, Lawrence was restrained by a number of security guards and handcuffed, then placed on the sidewalk outside the club. Police were called, but before they arrived, Lawrence became unconscious and died, according to the Las Vegas Police Department.

The next step in the investigation is for homicide detectives to submit an investigative synopsis to Clark County District Attorney David Roger, who will then decide whether to press charges against the security guards involved in the incident. A determination must also be made as to whether security guards acted legally in the restraint of Lawrence. ▼

ROYAL COURT SELECTS 2005 MONARCHS

At their annual Coronation Ball on Dec. 4, the Imperial Royal Sovereign Court of the Desert Empire, Inc. (Royal Court) crowned the monarchs for 2005.

Emperor VII YG and Empress VII Carlotta Stollengoodz were crowned in a delightful and stunning event that took place in the Trianon Ballroom at the Stardust Hotel and Casino. The monarchs have adopted the motto "Reign Of Change and Knowhow" for their year of service.

The Royal Court distributes much-needed funds back to the community through worthwhile organizations, such as AFAN, Human Society, Pedregal House, Street Teens, and St. Therese's food pantry. ▼

The Center Raises Funds With 2nd Annual Holiday Auction

On Saturday, Dec. 11, The Center held its 2nd annual Christmas Tree, Wreath, and Ornament Auction, raising more than $3500 for a variety of programs and services.

The event was well attended by the LGBT community, who were treated to a holiday wonderland with festive decorations, music, and treats.

Notable entries for the ornament auction were donated by Margaret Cho, Chip Arndt (CBS' Amazing Race), Mary Wilson of the Supremes, Gladys Knight, Monti Rock III, Mayor Oscar Goodman, Rep. Shelly Berkley, as well as the casts of Zumanity, Mystere, and We Will Rock You.

Black Jack Bears, QVegas, Hamburger Mary's, SNAPi, Senior Connections, and a host of other community organizations donated wreaths and Christmas trees for a silent auction. ▼

Mr. and Miss. NGRA 2005 Crowned

The Nevada Gay Rodeo Association held their annual Royal Pageant on Nov. 27 at Gipsy. Those in attendance were treated to a variety of entertainment, music and a talent competition and presentation from the candidates competing for Mr. And Miss. NGRA 2005.

Christopher Due-Litter was crowned Mr. NGRA 2005 and Tara Panties-Litter became Miss. NGRA 2005.

Both contestants are "spawn" from the house of Kitty Litter, who is a long time NGRA supporter and community member.

Joining the newly crowned NGRA royalty are 1st Runner-up Blanche Devahoe, and 2nd Runner-up Sadie Van Patton.

The new royalty team collected $1082 dollars to be donated to St. Therese Center, which assists those affected by HIV/AIDS.

Lambda Holds Business Expo and Annual Meeting

The Las Vegas Lambda Business and Professional Association held it's annual meeting and Business Expo at the Gay and Lesbian Center on Nov.18.

Several businesses from the community displayed their goods and services during the Expo, including Direct Access Lending, Enterprise Rent-A-Car, Salas & McQuigg Law Firm, Countrywide Home Loans, and more.

Lambda also conducted their annual meeting to discuss issues related to the organization's community efforts and to elect a new Board of Directors.

Lambda also presented Wes Miller (Get Booked) with the "Community Member of the Year" award. Scott Montes (Gay & Lesbian Yellow Pages) received an award for "Business Member of the Year." ▼

HYPOCRISY AT THE NETWORKS: NBC and CBS Censor Diversity

The Human Rights Campaign has strongly denounced CBS and NBC's refusal to air a United Church of Christ (UCC) television ad that emphasizes the church's welcoming of a diverse membership, including same-sex couples.

In a written statement, CBS told the UCC that the advertisement's scenes that depict "the exclusion of gay couples and other minority groups" by other religious institutions as well as "the fact the Executive Branch has recently proposed a Constitutional Amendment to define marriage as a union between a man and a woman, this spot is unacceptable for broadcast on the [CBS and UPN] networks." NBC also referred to the ad as "controversial."

"It's a shameful censorship of diversity and understanding," said Seth Kilbourn, Human Rights Campaign (HRC) National Director. "That the divisive and unsuccessful attempt to put discrimination in the Constitution is being used to deny the church its freedom of religion is un-American."

The advertisement in question includes an announcer saying, "Jesus doesn't turn people away. Neither do we. No matter who you are or where you are on life's journey, you are welcome here."

The ad has been accepted and will air on ABC Family, AMC, BET, Discovery, Fox, Hallmark, History Channel, Nick@Nite, TBS, TNT, the Travel Channel and TV Land.

Kilbourn added, "While CBS and NBC refuse to air these non-discriminatory messages, they will surely continue to feature popular gay characters who will profit the networks. Fair-minded Americans who disagree with this discriminatory stance should contact the networks and voice their opposition."

As World AIDS Day Recognized, New Report Finds Abstinence-Only Programs Mislead Youth

While World AIDS Day was being commemorated on Dec. 1, Rep. Henry Waxman (D-Calif.) released a new report showing that many federally funded abstinence-only education programs teach adolescents false and misleading information about reproductive health. Under the Bush Administration, federal funding for these programs has grown rapidly. In 2005, the federal government will spend $170 million on abstinence-only education, more than twice the amount spent in fiscal year 2001.

The report finds that over two-thirds of these federally funded abstinence programs rely on curricula that distort information about the effectiveness of contraceptives, misrepresent the risks of abortion, blur religion and science, treat stereotypes about girls and boys as scientific fact, and contain basic scientific errors.

"It is absolutely vital that the health education provided to America's youth be scientifically and medically accurate," said Rep. Waxman. "The abstinence-only programs reviewed in this report fail to meet this standard. Something is seriously wrong when federal tax dollars are being used to mislead kids about basic health facts."

The Human Rights Campaign recently issued their World AIDS Day Report Card, giving the United States a failing grade in prevention efforts.

"With roughly 40,000 new infections in the U.S. each year, it's time to stop putting federal funds toward programs driven more by ideology than science," said HRC Political Director Winnie Stachelberg. "Our nation's students deserve comprehensive sex education programs that are scientifically proven to work."

New Executive Director Candice Nichols settles into office with the help of Board President Jayson DiCotignano and HIV Prevention Coordinator Joshua Montgomery.

After a thorough search and screening process of eligible candidates, the Gay and Lesbian Community Center of Southern Nevada (The Center) has chosen Candice Nichols as its new Executive Director.

Nichols is a Las Vegas native and long-time activist and supporter within the LGBT community. She also has a tried and tested professional background within non-profit organizations and services, including fundraising, marketing, and grant writing.

"We're very excited about Candice joining The Center," said Jayson DiCotignano, Board President. "Her background and energy give her the ability to envision and mobilize LGBT creative power. I think she is a great fit and will bring a fresh perspective to The Center."

A renewed vision and perspective is just the tip of the iceberg for this female powerhouse. Nichols is the former Director of Education at Aid For AIDS Nevada (AFAN), a post she served in for eleven years—assisting thousands of community members during a period of incredible change and challenge.

"It was difficult in the early 90s at AFAN," Nichols explained. "I witnessed more than 80 deaths during that time period, before cocktails were available. Patients were diagnosed and then they were gone."

That type of emotional, physical, and professional tribulation is at the core of Nichols' dedication and experience in the LGBT community. She's also served as leader of The Center's Youth Group for more than 2 years, has served on the fundraising committee, and is a past recipient of The Center's "Woman Of The Year" Honorary Award.

Candice, as she prefers to be called — there's no pretense about this woman — shares The Center's passion and commitment to support and promote activities directed at furthering the well being, positive image and human rights of the LGBT community and its supporters throughout Southern Nevada. But her vision does not lack ambition.

"I envision The Center as a more comprehensive resource for the entire community," Nichols explains. "I would like to see us build upon the excellent services

we already offer.”

That’s the key to anyone who works in a position like this, “you have the autonomy to create anything you can think of,” Nichols added.

Nichols explains that among her goals, are more comprehensive services for youth, including workshops in self-esteem; a greater working relationship with the Clark County Health District on health issues; and more detailed services for all segments of the community.

“I would also like to establish more workshops that deal with every day aspects of the community,”

Nichols said, “such as real estate needs, legal questions and more.”

Nichols also points out that the computers The Center makes available for public use are outdated and obsolete. There is a need for more current technology and software. Moving in a positive direction and expansion seems to be a logical path for The Center and the vital role it plays in the community.

The Center was founded in 1993, and is home to numerous social and support groups, including the youth group, HIV testing, Hepatitis testing and vaccinations, Alcoholics Anonymous, G-Men, Lesbian Rap Group, Senior Connections, and more.

The Center also collaborates and works closely with local organizations and business, such as the Clark County Health District, Aid for AIDS of Nevada, the American Catholic Church in Nevada, Community Counseling Center, Gay Lesbian Straight Education Network (GLSEN), HELP of Southern Nevada, and many other groups. These collaborations help to provide essential social, educational, and service opportunities for both the LGBT community and the larger Las Vegas community.

With Candice in charge, there’s no doubt that The Center will continue to serve the community as its done for the past eleven years, and move in a positive and expansive direction to build upon the foundation it has already laid.

You can find out more about The Center at www.thecenter-lasvegas.com.

Golden Rainbow Offices Burglarized

In the early hours of Monday, Nov. 22, an individual or individuals used a five-pound brick to shatter the front window of the Golden Rainbow offices and steal equipment, checks, cash, and other items. The building's maintenance workers discovered the break-in around 7:00 a.m.

Arlene Cooper, Assistant Director of Golden Rainbow, was notified by phone, while Eric Fleming, the organization's Executive Director was the first to arrive at the scene.

The front window of the office was smashed, providing an entry point for the thieves. The door to the office remained locked, leaving the impression that there was more than one individual removing items from the office through the broken window.

"I immediately noticed that Arlene's computer was stolen," Fleming recalls, "and I went to my office and discovered that my computer was stolen."

On closer examination, Fleming discovered that the organization's computer server, which had been hidden from plain sight, was also taken.

The police were called and arrived within 10 minutes. Police spent several hours attempting to lift fingerprints from the crime scene, but to no avail. The robbers used a knife from the office kitchen in the course of the crime, but even that yielded no fingerprints.

Unfortunately, with a lack of witnesses or fingerprints, there are no solid leads in the case.

The thieves made off with more than $12,000 in checks, a company credit card and $500 in cash. "They also took a digital camera," said Cooper. "They also stole gift certificates from the Hospitality Association." The gift certificates were valued at $40 each, and intended for use by clients to enjoy a turkey dinner on Thanksgiving.

In addition, the robbers took the keys to the organization's apartments. Because those keys are not labeled with an address or other vital information, they could not be used unless the robbers knew the specific location of the apartments. To be safe, "we had all the locks changed," Cooper said.

The checks were cancelled, and the company's credit card was suspended. This has left the robbers with very little value to their crime, except for whatever they could derive from the computers and camera that were stolen.

The Police speculated that the robbers might have been primarily concerned with acquiring computers to obtain personal information for identity theft. Sensitive client data that was stored on the computers and server was coded, so that information is useless.

The powerful effect and standing of Golden Rainbow in the Las Vegas community became evident in the aftermath of the robbery. After a report aired on an afternoon news broadcast, the organization was inundated with phone calls from citizens, former clients, and strangers offering to donate goods and equipment.

"There was a client that we had assisted in the past," Cooper explained, "who is financially stable now and came in to make a cash donation. He said 'you have helped me in the past and now I'm going to help you.'"

Cooper also explained that a single mother who saw the news report, collected money from fellow employees and purchased 9 turkeys, diapers, and food for Golden Rainbow client — she even had $10 left over and donated that.

"The individuals who did this did not hurt this organization," Fleming explained, "they only inconvenienced us. At a time of year, when our client's spirits are low, an act like this only hurts those who are in need."

Golden Rainbow provides housing and direct financial assistance to men, women, children and families affected by HIV/AIDS. The organization is known for two of the most unique and well-attended fundraisers of the year, the Ribbon Of Life variety show each summer, and the Beaux Arts Ball at Halloween.

Although material needs for computers and equipment have been met, Golden Rainbow reminds the community that during the holidays, there is still a need for food, like canned goods, and since there is a baby in the organization's care at the moment, there is a need for diapers and other baby products.

This tragedy is not without a hint of humor. "The funniest item stolen," Cooper points out, "was a 12-pack of toilet paper with 8 rolls left. I can't believe they took our damn toilet paper. I thought that was pretty lame." ▼

An Early Christmas

There I was, at my new house (another fixer-upper — I've learned to choose fixer upper houses rather than fixer-upper boyfriends), and I was staining the kitchen cabinets. Which entails rubbing alcohol on to dissolve the lacquer, rubbing the lacquer off with steel wool, rubbing sandpaper over the wood, rubbing stain onto the wood, and rubbing stain off of the wood. In short, I was getting really good at rubbing wood. But I was tired. So I looked at my mail.

In it was a Christmas card from my sister, with her very first attempt at a holiday letter. Usually, I would rather drink lacquer (yeah, it would kill me, but what a finish) than read a holiday letter. But this one was different. Apparently a slightly twisted sense of humor runs in the family — and so does a social conscience. I read the letter, which goes to all of our relatives (even those in Mississippi), and I was proud. Here's what she wrote:

"Dear Friends and Family,

Welcome to our first annual family holiday letter! As I reflect over the past year, a few events stand out as worthy of mention... So here it goes.

The first one would be screaming — LOTS of screaming. Day in, day out — screaming. Ruth Ann, who is now 16 months old, is a screamer. It's her answer to everything that ails her and you and anyone else who might be within a mile's ear shot. Don't get me wrong — she's very sweet, and talented. You wouldn't believe how fast she can eat any little morsel off the floor. It's like having our own self propelled Hoover.

Leaves? She eats them. Dog food? She eats it. Refrigerator magnets? She eats them. She can almost walk now, so I suppose soon she'll be that much faster at the floor cleaning. They say that you are what you eat, but I don't think that's really true. She has curly blond hair and green eyes and is just beautiful. We've had an interesting time keeping up with her and trying to keep the floor free from potential Ruthie snacks. She's added a whole new dimension to our family, and we wouldn't have her any other way.

Our son Reagen's year has been filled with the joys of finding out what being a big brother is all about. He adores Ruth Ann, and she adores him. He has taught her many things, including the merits of burping loudly, piling blankets in the laundry basket and being pushed around the house, and reading. They both love to read, thank heaven. When he's not being a big brother, he's working hard in second grade, singing in a choir, playing piano, or at basketball practice. It makes you wonder if HE knows he has cerebral palsy. He also works in my business when he's available.

Speaking of business, I started the cleaning business shortly after Ruth Ann was born in order to have a more flexible schedule than teaching first grade. I have both residential and commercial clients, and am even into the big stuff like stripping and waxing tile for businesses. I love the flexibility of it, and I really enjoy running my own show.

Tim works a lot, too — 60 hours a week or so. He also started a professional M.B.A. program this fall. It's an accelerated program, so he will graduate next December. So he's been working really hard — when he's not at work, he's studying. But, hard work always pays off, unless you're gay.

The elections really rattled us and several of our friends and family. That really stands out in my mind as a day of sadness. It wasn't so much the presidential election that bothered me (O.K. — yes, I cried along with Ruth Ann, who screamed) as it was all the anti-gay amendments that passed. The fact that so many people went to the polls and consciously voted FOR intolerance and inequality really bothered me. I know many gay people who work very hard and pay taxes just like the rest of us. They are PAYING to be told that they don't have the same rights you and I do. Why? Because they're different. As a Christian myself, it truly worries me that some people are using Christianity to justify their own prejudices. I hope that at this special time of year, as we prepare for Christ's birthday, we can spend some time thinking of how he taught us to treat each other. I know I will.

Well, that's it — our first Holiday letter. I hope it didn't bore you to tears. If it did, don't call Ruth Ann, because she's probably already screaming.

Happy Holidays and a Prosperous New Year!

Love, Celia, Tim, Reagen, and Ruth Ann"

I set down the letter, and I suddenly realized — I'd gotten my Christmas present early. ▼

ABC Attempts To Revise Matthew Shepard Murder

By Chip Arndt

In a recent 20/20 broadcast with reporter Elizabeth Vargas, who claimed to expose the “mythology” of Matthew Shepard’s murder, ABC demonstrated that muckraking is alive and well on networks which remain mesmerized by reality TV and sensationalism.

Rather than a “stunning investigation,” the report seemed more like a ratings grab by a woman eager to be seen as the next Barbara Walters.

The baggage Vargas arrived with was obvious; her inability to be balanced was mind-boggling. The supposed startling drug angle is not remotely new despite her repeated claims — Aaron McKinney’s lawyers used it at the trial. Nor did she present any other substantial new evidence — only the updated or recycled remarks of his killers, who have had six years to agree on their story. There were interviews with a handful of assorted characters, some of which contradicted their own earlier stories or each other. There were a few new players, but all were uncorroborated by any one objective.

Vargas’ efforts to pacify those who believe the murder was at least partially motivated by hate through an interview with Laramie’s lead investigator on the case—who has renounced his own original homophobia—was insulting. The content of most of his interview, as well as others, who persuasively refuted the show’s premise, was purposely not shown.

I might have been a bit sympathetic if Vargas was exploring Matthew’s death in order to talk about the problems people have with drugs, or the problem America still has accepting others for who they are. Instead, Vargas and ABC paraded two killers who have had six years to agree on a story that might improve their image, while demonizing the young man they bludgeoned to death. Besides using hearsay to luridly repaint Matthew—unable to defend himself as he was on that horrible night six years ago—as a depressed meth addict, recklessly looking to trade drugs for sex, Vargas failed to acknowledge that Matthew was a loving son, trying to find himself in a hostile, closed society. How many kids like Matthew are there in the world? Lots, and Ms. Vargas would do well to talk to them, and find out what they’re about before singling one out as unique, and effectively conspiring with his killers to blame the victim for his own murder.

Vargas and ABC’s claims don’t matter: whether drugs were involved; whether McKinney was bisexual; whether Matthew actually touched him, or if he did, whether McKinney felt uncomfortable because of it. When was the last time a straight man touched a woman’s breast and she beat him to death?

Vargas and ABC missed the point of the whole story. Matthew is dead, but homophobia is alive and well in Laramie, in America, and at ABC.

To those kids like Matthew out there who feel they are alone, you’re not. Reach out to someone.

Love,

DESERT DIVA BY MONTI ROCK III

All Change

That's right dear readers it's all change here in Diva Land. Kelly and her team at QVegas have moved further East on Sahara; stop by and check out the home of Vegas' preeminent gay and lesbian publication. They have moved me too, which is why you're reading me here in OUT Las Vegas. I love it; I finally get the space to breathe and show you, my adoring fans, all that is best on the Las Vegas scene.

Speaking of scene, did I tell you I've seen darling Celine Dion more than 14 times? She raised the bar for me, a true international star gracing the stage at Caesars Coliseum. It must have been divine inspiration that got Dragone and Celine into synergy, and the result is brilliant beyond any description.

My friend Bill Moore told me some exciting news. Las Vegas' Christmas present is a 3 day run of Connie Francis at The Sahara. That's right you heard it here, Connie can be seen from Dec. 30 thru Jan. 1. My advice, don't miss this opportunity to see this legend grace the stage once more.

How do you like being spoiled for choices when dining out? I heard the other day that we are blessed with the widest array of epicurean choice of anywhere in the entire United States. Imagine that, so why can't I find anywhere decent? Here's the challenge dear readers. Tell me where you like to eat and why. I'll investigate all valid claims, and if I agree, it could appear right here in my column. Here's the fun bit, I always wanted to be a food critic, so let me know where you think the food is awful and I'll tell the world about that too. So, be on notice all you eateries, the Desert Diva is going to report your culinary expertise, or lack of it. Afraid, you need to be, this Desert Diva wrote the book on being a bitch.

I hope you like the new look I have created for you in OUT Las Vegas. I am the Desert Diva and I'm here to inform, investigate, inspire, and improve the scene for the queen in sparkle city. ▼

HOROSCOPES BY REV. BILL MORIN

Sagittarius

(November 22-December 21)

Let others have their say on Dec. 19th. The 21st is passionate right across the board. Xmas Eve is low key but the 25th proves fun filled. Your sweetie has surprise plans for the 31st. Jan. 6th & 9th are best for obtaining financial backing. You get to "coast" on the 12th.

Capricorn

(December 22-January 19)

This period has an "electric" feel to it. Contract agreement finalize on Dec. 22nd. Sun's shift to your sign that day kicks open career doors. Hosting a New Year bash proves an inspired idea. You'll be on the move Jan. 10th & 11th, so keep those batteries charged.

Taurus

(April 20-May 20)

Until Dec. 30th, you'll give more than is gotten. That pattern flips over on the 31st. Try not to resent a constantly needy sibling. You'll stick close to home on the 24th. Working on New Year's Eve provides welcome cash influx. Energy levels dip on Jan. 7th. Get away from it all on the 12th.

Virgo

(August 23-September 22)

Energy levels will be more "high voltage" than usual. Take advantage of a favor offered on Dec. 16th. Increased workload brings out your best on the 23rd. Though Xmas is low key, New Year's proves to be a blast. Your work ethics & mettle are put to the test on Jan. 11th.

Aquarius

(January 20-February 18)

Little will seem to go right up to Dec. 21st. Planetary vibes smile on you after that. Don't spread yourself too thin on the 24th. You get to play "hero" at work on the 28th. Relationship issues become the top priority after Jan. 4th. Do more listening than talking on Jan. 10th, ok?

Gemini

(May 21-June 21)

Career momentum is low until Dec. 20th. Full Moon on the 26th ignites your financial sector. Watch out for casual remarks made on the 31st. Jan. 4th brings long held ambition closer to reality. Blind date on the 8th turns out to be a welcome surprise. Phone calls overwhelm you on the 14th.

Libra

(September 23-October 22)

So much to do and so little time, pretty much sums up this month's pattern. You'll be full of ideas on Dec. 19th. Let the boss do all the talking on the 23rd. Xmas is sweet & special for you. The 31st finds you bouncing off the walls. Start packing for that upcoming move by Jan. 10th

Pisces

(February 19-March 19)

Emotions run high as this month begins. You'll be kept jumping, especially from Dec. 19th-23rd. This keeps you from dwelling on a former love heartache. Try not to "hide" during the entire holiday period. A short trip Jan. 7th-10th puts a long overdue smile on your face.

Cancer

(June 22-July 22)

This 30-day cycle begins and ends sluggishly, but what's in between is quite another story. Your happy face gets a workout on the 23rd. A "blue" co-worker will need cheering up on the 31st. Begin that new diet on Jan. 2nd. Take no prisoners when it comes to collecting debts on the 5th.

Scorpio

(October 23-November 21)

You tear into home renovations on Dec. 17th. Listen to your sweetie on the 23rd. A former rival calls with good news on the 28th. New Year's brings an avalanche of invites. A parental figure has a mixed bag of news on Jan. 8th. The 13th looks especially chaotic.

Aries

(March 20-April 19)

Your magical way brightens up many lives from Dec. 20th-26th. Socially, you'll be in great demand (some invites must be declined). Extra cash comes your way on the 30th & gives a reason to celebrate. On Jan. 6th you're made an offer you can refuse. "Butter up" the boss on the 13th.

Leo

(July 23-August 22)

Your friendship "power base" is quite intact and shall be tapped into especially from Dec. 22nd-27th. Resist partying too much on Jan. 1st & 2nd. That roommate situation flares up again in early Jan. & it has no easy answers. A new supervisor puts you to the test on Jan. 7th & 10th.

'SCUSE ME, GOD? WE NEED TO GET GOING ON THAT SUPERNOVA IF WE WANT...

Yes, yes, yes. See? My work is never done! Now, how to send you back before you're dead so long people start pelling "it's a miracle"?

Every time I work one of THOSE out in the open, someone has to go and start a WAR over it! "My God's better than your God" and all that nonsense! Tell you the truth, none of you got it EXACTLY right! Religion! When you people first invented it, I was a little embarrassed about all the adulation and all, but NOW? I'm pretty sure I smell Lucifer on this one, crafty little bastard!

A Big Problem

Apparently there's a big problem with voting in this state, and I'm not talking politics. I'm talking the participants in QVegas Magazine's reader's poll who selected Price Video as the best place to get porn. I'll have you know that Price Video provides educational video services. It is a place for people to, uh, bone up on their knowledge of anatomy and physiology. They even have material on the human reproduction system, should you find that fascinating.

But "porn?" (Actually, it's more like "buttporn." You knew I was going to say that, didn't you?)

I'm flattered as all hell. In the six years that I've been writing Peeping With Tom I may have once or twice made reference to the shop. If I was a real opportunistic prick I'd use my column as an advertising venue, but I figured there was an ethical violation in there somewhere. You probably won't hear too much more about it from me, but yes, for the record, I own Price Video. In regard to ethics, I must also note that — although I write for Stonewall Publishing (the same folks who bring you QVegas) — I had nothing to do with the poll. I didn't even vote. However, if I had to vote for best new production company, I'd have to go with Cobra Video. I thought they blew their wad with last summer's Every Poolboy's Dream, but lo and behold — Schoolboy Crush came along and blew my wad.

This hot little number features two Brents: Corrigan and Everett. Both of these cuties are making quite a name for themselves in the biz, and I'm not referring to the one they share. Everett's been in everyone — I mean, everything — under the sun lately, and Corrigan is the cover boy and star of both this and Poolboy. They're young, handsome, sexual, and physically flawless. They also exude a certain naughtiness and an element of play that is often overlooked by American directors.

Schoolboy tells the story of Corrigan and his older brother, kind of a stand-offish dude who treats little Brent like crap. LB (little Brent, or little brother, if you prefer) has the hots for Everett (BB, or big Brent), one of the brother's friends. BB is somewhat of a badass, and mimics his pal's mistreatment of LB. The plot, if you will, focuses on the tension between these three, which is at last resolved in a kinky three-way complete with double penetration.

This isn't original in conception or execution. Nonetheless, the dude behind Cobra Video — Bryan Philips — has developed an excellent product. His videographic skills are a comfortable mix between the raw amateurish edge of Joe Serna and the slick Hollywood feel of Marty Stevens. His models are of the twinkish variety. His movies run a minimum of two hours, and some are bareback. (Poolboy is. Schoolboy is not.) Rarely does he use notable stars, relying instead on his own harem of Pennsylvania's finest. (Cobra's based in Wilkes-Barre.) He's also packaged and marketed his material with a distinct logo, color scheme, and overall feel.

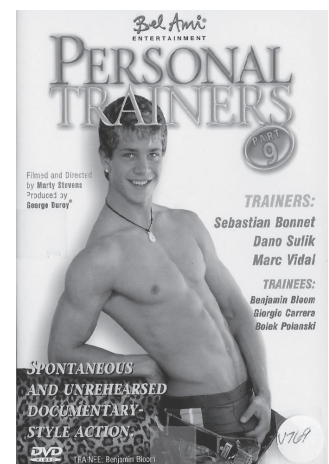

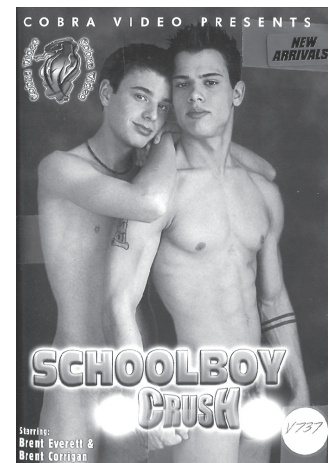

This is good stuff. So are his casting couch flicks and some of his older movies. I could say he brings out the snake charmer in me, but I'd look kind of silly in a turban and a bed sheet. I wouldn't mind, however, coaxing a couple of pythons out of their basket. I may not get to play the slide trombone very often, but I can whistle pretty well with a flute in my mouth.

The ninth installment of Bel Ami's Personal Trainers series just hit the shelves. Producer George DuRoy and camera dude Marty Stevens pick three keepers from their 101Men audition tapes and bring in three experienced Bel Ami models to show them the ropes. The training session is filmed, complete with stage direction and behind-the-scenes banter. Generally we see Stevens shooting the players, and a second camera shooting Stevens shooting the players. In this case veterans Sebastian Bonnet, Dano Sulik, and Marc Vidal do the honors, among other things.

At the risk of repeating myself into irrelevance, I must note that there is no better gay porn company in the world. Bel Ami has it all, from the most beautiful models to the most stunning photography to the most erotic sex to the most impressive budget. I've never visited Slovakia, but — to pilfer from The Beverly Hillbillies — it's the place you ought to be. I don't know that anyone's ever said that about Pennsylvania.

Thank you all so much for supporting Price Video these many years. This award is indeed an honor. The shop will celebrate twenty years next April, and as the third person to take ownership of this happening little joint, I promise to throw a celebration fit for royalty. I also promise to keep bringing you the biggest selection of the highest quality porn in the state, and the lowest prices of any rental/retail store anywhere. It's the least I can do. And, like a friend told me, I always do the least I can do. ▼

If you have an event to be listed in our calendar, please email details to calendar@qvegas.com at least a month in advance.
