FITNESS RESOLUTIONS

It's that time of year! Whether it's a renewed interest in better physical health, a push to reclaim an expanded holiday waistline, or avid gym-goers tolerating the influx of newbies, the days after the new year see an increase in interest in health and fitness.

If you're starting a new gym membership or haven't been in awhile, check in with the staff and see if they have a complementary session with one of the personal trainers. Learning how to properly use weights and equipment ensure the best results and avoids injuries. And don't forget to wipe down equipment after each use.

High Tech Solutions

Most modern cardio fitness equipment can estimate your caloric burn by entering your height, weight, and age, and using the grips to periodically check your pulse. Sync your phone or watch with higher-tech equipment to automatically track your fitness routines and goals.

Apple Fitness+

The award-winning Apple Fitness+ is now available on iPhones, with or without Apple Watch. This fitness subscription offers over 3,000 studio-style workouts and meditations, all led by a diverse and inclusive team of trainers. Fitness+ users will see onscreen trainer guidance and interval timing, and estimated calories burned will be used to make progress on their Move ring. Yoga — one of the most popular Fitness+ workouts — can help users feel strong, stretched, and centered.
