Whether you're a local or tourist, we always feature our favorite spots along with all the new and exciting things our city has to offer.

With all of the Super Bowl excitement this weekend, don't forget that Valentine's Day is just a week away. This week we feature Brian DeLong-Weismiller, owner of Bud Weismiller. In the ever-evolving tapestry of life, few stories resonate with the beauty of transformation and resilience quite like that of Brian. From managing a bustling manufacturing plant to pioneering a fresh, eco-conscious approach to floristry, Brian's journey is a testament to the power of embracing change and finding one's calling in the most unexpected places.

Apple launched Vision Pro last week, and we are excited to announce that QVegas is the first LGBTQ+ app for Vision Pro (and so far the only). We are continuing to add more categories in the app and on our website. You can also expect more technical innovations from us soon!

Embracing Change and Blooming Anew: The Inspiring Journey of Brian DeLong-Weismiller

In the ever-evolving tapestry of life, few stories resonate with the beauty of transformation and resilience quite like that of Brian DeLong-Weismiller. From managing a bustling manufacturing plant to pioneering a fresh, eco-conscious approach to floristry, Brian's journey is a testament to the power of embracing change and finding one's calling in the most unexpected places.

A Shift in Life's Direction

Brian's professional life took a dramatic turn in August 2022 when he was released from his role as a general manager of a manufacturing plant, a position that saw him overseeing a large manufacturing team through the pandemic. The job was demanding where the stress of production weighed heavily on him. The sudden severance from his job plunged Brian into a period of introspection and uncertainty. Accustomed to the hustle from the age of 16, the sudden lack of direction was disorienting for him, especially as a gay man who had learned early on the importance of self-sufficiency and resilience in the face of societal challenges.

Finding Joy in Unexpected Places

The post-severance period was marked by a deep dive into depression. This depression juxtaposed the wedding he and his partner, David were planning. It was a period of struggling to find his center and drive. It was during this time that Brian went on a walk with his friend Suzie, she asked him a question for which he had no answer - "what brings you joy?" With that question stuck in his mind, Brian zipped across town to meet some friends at the floral wholesaler to look at options for his upcoming nuptials. That visit to the flower wholesaler opened Brian's eyes to the beauty and potential of floral artistry. Mesmerized by the array of flowers available, he embarked on a self-taught journey into floristry, experimenting with different flowers and arrangements to extend their longevity and appeal.

Blossoming into a Florist

Brian's approach to his newfound passion was anything but conventional. Rather than diving into the event and wedding floristry market, he chose to focus on daily deliveries, aiming to make beautiful, eco-friendly floral arrangements accessible to a broader audience. His business philosophy centered around sustainability, from up-cycling vases to meticulously selecting flowers that could bring joy to people's homes without breaking the bank or harming the planet.

Brian's venture quickly distinguished itself with its unique value proposition, catching the attention of the local community and even inspiring imitation from established florists in the area. His commitment to quality, affordability, and environmental responsibility has set a new standard in the local floristry scene, proving that business success and ethical practices can go hand in hand.

A Community Embraced

Beyond the blossoms and bouquets, Brian's story is deeply intertwined with the LGBTQ+ community. His journey is a beacon of hope and inspiration for others, showcasing the importance of support, acceptance, and love in overcoming life's challenges. As Brian's business continues to grow, so does his involvement in and contribution to the community, fostering connections and encouraging others to pursue their passions fearlessly.

Brian's transition from a high-pressure corporate job to a fulfilling career in floristry is more than just a career change; it's a journey of self-discovery, resilience, and love. His story reminds us that sometimes, the most profound joy and purpose can be found in the most unexpected places, encouraging us to remain open to change and to pursue our passions with open hearts and minds. In the garden of life, Brian has found his bloom, and in doing so, he inspires us all to find our own.
