Whether you're a local or tourist, we always feature our favorite spots along with all the new and exciting things our city has to offer.

On the cover, Paradox Museum opens in Las Vegas—your new queer-friendly destination, where everything is possible, and nothing is as it seems.

As National Pride Month comes to an end, Kevin Kampschror shares a poignant reflection on the importance of standing up against hate and discrimination within professional circles, and in this case, within the legal community.

The next GLAM is set for July 9th at the top of the Palms. Cover includes 2 premium cocktails at Ghostbar.

Standing Up to Hate

by Kevin Kampschror, Esq.

To provide some context, a colleague, who I will refer to as an ally of the LGBTQ community, forwarded the screen shot of the tweet. He was outraged. This tweet is from one of our own, a licensed attorney in Nevada.

While this tweet is misplaced and full of hate, it is protected by the First Amendment. Indeed, people are free to possess and share their opinions, no matter how offensive or hateful they may be, provided they not violate any laws. However, I am also free to take this opportunity – during PRIDE month – to issue a response.

One of my goals as the Chair of the LGBT Section of the State Bar is to be a resource for the community when these situations arise. I did not, however, expect to encounter this type of speech from a colleague.

The timing of this tweet not only falls during PRIDE, but follows the very month that Nevada Lawyer focused upon civility in practice. In June, that same publication featured Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion (DEI) within the practice of law. This tweet by a Nevada Lawyer could not be further from civil or diverse. It is adversarial and bigoted, and makes a false and supremely offensive connection between Nazism and rainbows (a symbol for the LGBTQ Community). I am a proud gay Jewish lawyer, who must, on behalf of myself and others, recognize this tweet and its underlying values as an embarrassment to our profession.

I am left with questions for the lawyer and author of this embarrassment. Do you understand that you are born with your sexual orientation? It is not a choice. Are you a member of religion or race that was targeted through a mass genocide? Do you truly see a connection between the symbol of pride and community and the Nazi regime? This tweet is both homophobic and antisemitic.

I am not a member of the so-called cancel culture. To the contrary, I encourage the author of this tweet to publicly share his opinions. Invite us to engage with you in public discourse. Defend your opinions, at the risk of learning they are indefensible. I suspect you do not have the courage to do so.

To the author of this hate, you have let our profession down. You have not proven yourself to be someone willing or capable of defending the inalienable rights protected by our Nevada and U.S. Constitutions.

Originally published on the Clark County Bar Association Blog (clarkcountybar.org/blog/)

In the face of hate and prejudice, Kevin's response is a call to action for us all to exercise our right to free speech responsibly and stand up against bigotry. It is a reminder that while free speech allows us to express differing opinions, it should never be used as a tool to perpetuate hate or discrimination. It's an important conversation to have not just during PRIDE month, but at all times.

Unraveling Reality at The Paradox Museum

A Must-Experience Queer Wonderland

Defying the norm, challenging the ordinary, and embracing the extraordinary is something the LGBTQ+ community knows a thing or two about. And if you are looking for a space where this ethos is echoed, celebrated, and taken to unexpected levels, then look no further than the Paradox Museum.

The Paradox Museum is not just a venue filled with exhibits; it's an embodiment of the queer spirit - a place where boundaries are pushed, norms are challenged, and realities are defied. At this eclectic hub of creativity and imagination, reality is not a limit, but a canvas that invites exploration and defies expectations.

Much like the word 'paradox' itself, which in ancient Greek meant 'contrary to expectation' or 'incredible', this museum dares to contradict common sense, challenging preconceived notions of reality and perception. Like the LGBTQ+ community, the Paradox Museum thrives on its unique ability to turn contradiction into harmony, creating a space that encourages critical thinking and introspection.

You'll get to experience fascinating exhibits, like the Paradox Tunnel, a walkthrough exhibit that challenges your sense of gravity, making something as simple as walking straight feel impossible. Then, there's the Paradox Piano, an interactive installation that lets you communicate with a musical instrument, turning your voice into a language of keystrokes. These experiential masterpieces speak to the core tenet of the LGBTQ+ community - the courage to express your unique voice.

The museum's commitment to diversity and freedom resonates strongly with the LGBTQ+ community. These core values are not just a mission statement for the museum, but are also woven into its every aspect, from its design to its exhibits. At the Paradox Museum, everyone is welcomed, celebrated, and included, much like our diverse and vibrant community.

Founded by serial entrepreneur Miltos Kambourides and Greek TV host Sakis Tanimanidis, the Paradox Museum, much like our community, started from humble beginnings and has blossomed into a global brand. The Paradox Museum has 13 locations planned by the end of 2023, proving that defying norms and pushing boundaries is a global phenomenon, just like the LGBTQ+ community's fight for acceptance and equality.

The museum is not just a place to visit, but a place to experience, learn, and reevaluate your understanding of reality. As the LGBTQ+ community continues to rewrite societal norms, the Paradox Museum mirrors this journey in its unique, immersive exhibits. With the Paradox Museum, there's always more than meets the eye - a sentiment all too familiar to us.

So, are you ready to defy reality and step into a world of paradoxes? A visit to the Paradox Museum is a journey through an alternate universe, a celebration of diversity and individuality, and an experience that echoes the spirit of the LGBTQ+ community.

It's not just about thinking outside the box; it's about redefining the box altogether. Welcome to the Paradox Museum: your new queer-friendly destination, where everything is possible, and nothing is as it seems.

Every exhibit at the Paradox Museum is custom-made by an in-house team of artists and technicians, ensuring the distinct quality and unique experience for every visitor.

With 2 million visitors expected in 2023, the Paradox Museum is set to become a global leader in experiential entertainment.
