Pine Dining

Iconic Southern Nevada landmark, Mt Charleston Lodge, launches an exclusive summer chef series on the mountain this July. Starting July 23, the site of the beloved Mt Charleston Lodge will be transformed into Pine Dining: A Summer Chef Cookout Series. Hosted in an elevated temporary structure, the framework will feature panoramic windows for 360-degree views of the mountain, with access to indoor and outdoor seating. Pine Dining will provide a way to celebrate memories of the Lodge and make new ones before the rebuild begins, bringing the community together on the mountain once again.

JONATHAN KARRANT – SUNDAY FUNDAY

July 10 @ Notoriety

Jonathan Karrant is one of the Jazz world's leading male vocalists and he's hot on the Vegas music scene. The series "Sunday Funday" hits the stage at Notoriety the second Sunday of each month at 2:00pm. Monthly audiences are wowed with a new musical experience. Jonathan brings an all-star band always featuring different musicians and special guest singers. The program is often themed switching up the song selection for each show. Performing some of the greatest songs ever written; reaching back to the 40's and coming all the way through to the 90's. Jonathan doesn't cover songs, he uncovers them, always bringing something fresh and unique to the tune. "Sunday Funday" is a perfect way to spend your Sunday afternoon!

30 YEARS OF COCO MONTRESE

This year, Martin Cooper, the person behind CoCo Montrese has reached a milestone in his career. Cooper has been performing in drag for thirty years, reaching international fame, and has become an icon in both the Queer and Black communities. He has performed in bars all across the world, worked for Disney World, headlined as a celebrity female impersonator as Janet Jackson in one of the longest-running shows on the Las Vegas Strip, and gained fame after appearing on Season 5 of RuPaul's Drag Race. He currently performs at his home bar, The Garden Las Vegas, has returned to the world-famous Las Vegas Strip in the cast of RuPaul's Drag Race Live! at the Flamingo Hotel and Casino, and co-produces a new podcast called "Go Deep No Sleep" that centers on LGBTQ+ conversations and mental health awareness.

Cooper was born in the deep south and at just a few days old, was adopted into a very religious family. His father was a church pastor and his mother was a missionary. As a kid, he was always himself. Even at Sunday school, he had a lot of questions about things that the church was teaching, and if you follow him on social media you know that not much has changed. CoCo is constantly challenging authority and demanding that politicians and others are held accountable for discrimination or other practices that cause harm to marginalized communities.

In 1992, young Cooper was in his Freshman year of college, living in Montgomery Alabama, and attending Alabama State University. Drag was something that wasn't even on his radar. He had started school pursuing a degree in pre-law. But little did he know, life had other plans for him. One night, he used his fake ID to get into a gay club near the school campus. Upon entry, he watched entertainers captivate the audience. Among those performing was Mocha Montrese, who noticed something special in Cooper. "You're Pretty. You should do Drag," she exclaimed. Hesitant at first, Martin was easily swayed by the chance to win money in an amateur competition. So the night of the competition, and after making a lot of money in tips, Miss CoCo Montrese was born.

Miss Mocha Montrese, became CoCo's Drag Mother, leading a legacy of many other successful Montrese children as part of the Haus. Mocha was tough on her children, making sure that their academic excellence came first. "If your grades drop below a B, then your drag is done," said Mocha. CoCo performed at that club for a while and one of his first appearances was as Prince, which the crowd loved.

Having a new parental figure came at a time when chosen family and guidance would be important to CoCo, as his adoptive parents, would pass away. The family and religious community were trying to encourage him to be the successor and leader of the congregation, something that was not an option as a new future was already in the works.

CoCo was asked early on by Mocha if he wanted to do drag as a hobby or a career and decided to choose the career path, entering and winning multiple crowns and competitions along the way. His drag mother was a great source of inspiration holding many titles as well. That guidance and training led CoCo to find the professionalism and business side of drag.

One competition led CoCo to Las Vegas, where he was recruited to perform as Janet Jackson, alongside Derrick Barry (as Britney Spears and Lady Gaga), Larry "Hot Chocolate" Edwards, and other iconic performers.

Derrick and his partner Nick San Pedro advocated strongly for CoCo to audition for Drag Race after the show had reached out for him to audition. "Derrick has been one of my best friends and biggest supporters of my career. Ever since I stepped foot in Las Vegas we have been great partners. We have traveled the world together and performed in so many places. It's amazing to be back on stage in RuPaul's Drag Race Live! Since I am a swing in the show, I even get to be the first "Black Britney" when I fill in for him."

The journey of thirty years has had its ups and downs. Many fans don't know this about CoCo, but during the filming of Season 5, his partner was battling cancer. There was a lot of misdirected anger and guilt that aired on the show. And even returning to All-Stars, CoCo was himself in the Intensive Care Unit. He kept his health issues from the show and later revealed them at the reunion. Since then, CoCo still performs and is an inspiration to others.

The next chapter of CoCo's life is trying to create a way for entertainers to gain proper training in the life of a celebrity, since many Drag Race Queens become famous overnight. He also wants to invite others into his personal life as he opens up and gets vulnerable on his podcast, "Go Deep No Sleep." The podcast is centered around mental health and was the mastermind of longtime friend and mentor Jazzy Smith. Together, they plan to challenge the stigma around seeking mental health therapy and dig deeper into the psyche of the human brain.

You can keep up with everything CoCo by visiting his website: <https://www.MissCoCoMontrese.com>
