Whether you're a local or tourist, we always feature our favorite spots along with all the new and exciting things our city has to offer.

This week's cover feature Erika Jayne of RHOBH fame. She's opening her new residency "Bet it All On Blonde" at House of Blues inside Mandalay Bay this month starting on August 25th.

Then on August 27th, Palms hosts two amazing events with GLAM and the Equality Ball.

Last week Hamburger Mary's hosted Miss Gay Sin City America and Ada Vox walked away with the 2023 title!

Barbie, Wayne Brady, and Ben Cohen make headlines in Queer Chronicles.

Are you watching what we're watching? Red, White, and Royal Blue on Amazon Prime is the must-see in queer streaming.

Queer Chronicles

LGBTQ+ Visibility and Representation

In recent times, the global landscape of LGBTQ+ representation and visibility has seen noteworthy developments, from film to television, and personal admissions from celebrities. As the LGBTQ+ community continues to evolve, it's crucial to keep abreast of these changes, both for inspiration and understanding. Here's a curated roundup of the most recent happenings.

Barbie's Big Screen Controversy in the Middle East

The film "Barbie," led by Margot Robbie and directed by Greta Gerwig, was set to make waves across the Middle East. However, its broader message of inclusion and gender equality sparked significant concerns among certain nations. Although there were no overt references to LGBTQ+ rights, the film's essence of promoting these values led to bans in countries like Kuwait and Lebanon. The primary apprehension? The promotion of "ideas and beliefs alien to society."

In a larger context, these bans echo a broader issue. Many Middle Eastern nations still view homosexuality and LGBTQ+ advocacy as threats, necessitating its suppression. In places like Iraq, even mentioning homosexuality in the media is met with backlash. But in contrast, countries like Lebanon have previously showcased tolerance, making the Barbie controversy even more significant.

Wayne Brady's Bold Admission

Comedian and TV host Wayne Brady took a brave step recently, coming out as pansexual in an intimate interview with PEOPLE.

Brady, renowned for his roles in "Let's Make a Deal" and "Whose Line Is It Anyway?", revealed his journey to self-discovery. He defined his pansexuality as an attraction to individuals, irrespective of how they identify – be it gay, straight, bi, transsexual, or non-binary.

Growing up, Brady had witnessed the weaponization of gay identity. This, combined with societal pressures, led him to suppress his true feelings for a long time. However, the passing of comedian Robin Williams in 2014 prompted introspection, ultimately driving him to embrace his identity and shed light on the complexities faced by many in understanding their sexuality.

Breaking Patterns with Ben Cohen

The new queer-themed British anthology series, "Patterns," brought a refreshing episode titled "SuperBen." Here, London teen Liam wishes for his poster boy, English rugby champion Ben Cohen, to guide him, and voilà, his wish comes true. Cohen, embodying a larger-than-life ally, steps out of the poster to aid Liam in navigating his challenges.

Off the screen, Ben Cohen is no stranger to advocating against bullying and homophobia. Founding the Ben Cohen StandUp Foundation in 2011, he's been an ardent supporter of LGBTQ+ rights. In "Patterns," he accentuates the importance of straight allies in the LGBTQ+ movement, suggesting that they can play a pivotal role in breaking stereotypes and initiating meaningful conversations.

Shifting Tides in Global Entertainment

Movies and shows are powerful media that shape global perceptions. Despite its huge international success, Barbie faced scrutiny and bans due to its subliminal LGBTQ+ supportive messaging. Similarly, "Spider-Man: Across the Spider-Verse" was pulled from Middle Eastern cinema listings, likely due to a brief appearance of a transgender poster in a scene.

Yet, there are glimmers of hope. Marvel's "Doctor Strange in the Multiverse of Madness," which portrays a lesbian couple, was screened in Lebanon, even as it faced bans in several Arab nations. Similarly, the 2021 film "Eternals" managed to be showcased in Lebanon despite censorship issues.

The journey for LGBTQ+ representation is one of ebb and flow. While movies like "Barbie" face bans, the personal admissions of celebrities like Wayne Brady give the community hope.

Erika Jayne's Glittering Las Vegas Residency Comes Alive at the House of Blues

Las Vegas, the glitzy gambler's paradise, has a sparkling new ace up its sleeve. Erika Jayne, the unparalleled dance diva, is all set to roll the dice and 'Bet It All On Blonde' at the iconic House of Blues. And here's the fabulous kicker: this isn't just any ordinary musical residency; it's an unabashed nod to the gay community, an anthem of love, acceptance, and the undying spirit of celebration.

For many in the LGBTQ+ community, Jayne isn't just a TV personality or a dance artist – she's an embodiment of fierce authenticity. With her effortless style, unapologetic flamboyance, and magnetic charisma, Erika has time and again cemented her position as a gay icon. But this time, it's not just about the records or the TV appearances; it's about honoring a community that has shown her undying love and support.

Starting on August 25, 2023, 'Bet It All On Blonde' promises to be a shimmering spectacle, and in true Erika Jayne style, expect it to be draped in glitz, glamour, and heaps of sass. Think sequined bodysuits, blinding spotlights, and, of course, Jayne's signature high-octane performances that would get anyone grooving, no matter their age or orientation.

It's a universal truth that the gay community knows how to party. Now, combine that with Jayne's prowess, and you get a match made in disco heaven. Erika is not just bringing her chartbusters to the stage; she's unleashing a new era of her music – her first in over five years. Fresh beats, hypnotic rhythms, and perhaps, just perhaps, a ballad or two that echoes the struggles and triumphs of being queer in today's age.

What makes Jayne resonate deeply within the gay community is her unabashed authenticity. From the seductive beats of "Pretty Mess" to the audacious "How Many F—ks", she's never shied away from being her true self. The fact that she's bringing this raw authenticity to Las Vegas, a city that has long been an LGBTQ+ favorite, only makes the upcoming residency even more special.

Coming close on the heels of Bravo TV's announcement of 'The Real Housewives of Beverly Hills' 13th season, where Erika has been a radiant star since 2015, the 'Bet It All On Blonde' residency isn't just another feather in her cap; it's a crown jewel. It's an experience that promises to blend the best of Jayne, the indomitable spirit of Las Vegas, and the radiant energy of the LGBTQ+ community.

The House of Blues, nestled within the luxurious Mandalay Bay Resort and Casino, will not just be a stage for Erika but a testament to the kaleidoscopic world of the LGBTQ+ community. As the beats drop and the lights shimmer, expect to see couples holding hands, drag queens ruling the dance floor, and love reigning supreme.

As the curtains rise on August 25 and Erika Jayne takes center stage, 'Bet It All On Blonde' will undoubtedly be more than just a musical extravaganza. It'll be an affirmation, a celebration, and above all, a declaration that love, in all its colors, always wins.

So, whether you're a die-hard Erika Jayne fan, a member of the LGBTQ+ community, or someone looking to be part of a history-making event, there's only one place to be this summer – dancing away with Erika Jayne at the House of Blues, Las Vegas. See you there, glitter and all!

Palms Casino Resort Continues to Lead the Way for LGBTQ+ Programming with Palms PRIDE

Palms Casino Resort, an unwavering advocate for diversity and inclusivity, continues to shine as a beacon of LGBTQ+ programming with its steadfast commitment to the Palms PRIDE initiative. In just over a year since its grand opening, Palms Casino Resort has consistently championed equality, and its ongoing dedication to LGBTQ+ initiatives is evident through its vibrant Palms PRIDE campaign, resulting in additional events for the LGBTQ+ Community and allies!

Launched during Las Vegas Pride Month in October, Palms PRIDE took the LGBTQ+ community by storm with two signature events: a dynamic pool party and the dazzling HalloQween celebration, combining Halloween festivities with LGBTQ+ pride. These initial events marked the beginning of a sustained legacy of inclusiveness at Palms Casino Resort.

Garrett Pattiani and Tommy Bassett, Co-founders of Synergy Haus, expressed their elation about these developments, stating, "The realization of these extraordinary events at Palms fills us with immense joy. These groundbreaking initiatives demonstrate the incredible potential and exceptional talent that flourish when nurtured and celebrated. By providing access to some of the most iconic and state-of-the-art venues, Palms Casino Resort has empowered us to create a dynamic community while simultaneously boosting tourism in the vibrant city of Las Vegas."

The Palms PRIDE initiative remains a testament to Palms Casino Resort's enduring dedication to fostering a safe and expressive space for all. As the LGBTQIA+ community takes center stage, Palms Casino Resort stands as an unwavering ally to the Black and Brown queer community, symbolizing support, acceptance, and empowerment.

A highly anticipated collaboration between BeyGood, the philanthropic organization founded by the legendary Beyoncé Knowles-Carter, the Human Rights Campaign Foundation, BeeLine Productions, and spearheaded by Executive Producers Lena Giroux Zakalik, Carlos Irizarry, and Stephanie "Packrat" Whitfield — all prominent professional dancers and choreographers for high-profile artists in the entertainment industry will grace Palms Casino Resort with the spectacular Equality Ball on August 27th, coinciding with GLAM and taking place later in the evening after the Beyoncé Concert. The Shady Gang (Carlos and Packrat, both queer artists of color) will be co-directing the ball and together have over 20+ years of experience in the ballroom community and have organized Balls in Ballroom culture for years. This vibrant event pays homage to legendary houses and is expertly choreographed by Carlos Basquiat. It embodies the resort's commitment to celebrating the vibrancy of Ballroom culture, putting black and brown people in the spotlight.

The partners for the Equality Ball symbolize a powerful alliance in the pursuit of LGBTQ+ rights and visibility. The Human Rights Campaign stands as a leading advocate for LGBTQ+ equality, working tirelessly to promote inclusivity in all aspects of life. BeyGood, the philanthropic arm of global superstar Beyoncé, brings its unparalleled commitment to social justice to the event, ensuring a night of empowerment and celebration. BeeLine Productions, renowned for their innovative event planning, adds their expertise to curate a truly unforgettable experience. Lastly, Carlos Basquiat, a rising star and acclaimed choreographer, brings his creative prowess to choreograph an awe-inspiring performance that pays homage to the legendary houses of Ballroom culture.

The collaboration with Synergy Haus has also paved the way for esteemed community organizations to select Palms Casino Resort as their preferred venue.
