GAY SOFTBALL WORLD SERIES TAKES OVER LAS VEGAS

A CELEBRATION OF PRIDE,
SPORTSMANSHIP, AND CAMARADERIE

Whether you're a local or tourist, we always feature our favorite spots along with all the new and exciting things our city has to offer.

This week we feature the Gay Softball World Series. More than just a tournament, it's a celebration of LGBTQ+ pride, community, and athleticism. As the GSWs makes its way to Las Vegas October 14-19, 2024, the city is ready to embrace the event with open arms, offering a week of exciting games, vibrant social events, and unforgettable memories.

We are also excited to share more about our recent trips with OUTbound Travel to France and Italy and the amazing experience OUTbound creates for LGBTQ+ travelers. The Vegas contingency is growing, and we invite you to join us next year to experience Greece!

Halloween in Las Vegas isn't just one night, it's a month-long celebration. Check out our listing of events happening throughout October!

The Gay Softball World Series Comes to Las Vegas

A Celebration of Pride, Sportsmanship, and Community

For nearly half a century, the Gay Softball World Series (GSWS) has stood as a beacon of pride, sportsmanship, and community for LGBTQ+ athletes and their allies. What began as a modest competition between two coastal teams in 1977 has blossomed into an international phenomenon, and this year, Las Vegas has the honor of hosting the 47th edition of the tournament. As the GSWS prepares to take over the fields and hearts of Las Vegas from October 14 to October 19, the excitement is building across the city.

With over 220 teams and more than 3,000 athletes converging from across the United States and Canada, this year's event promises to be one of the largest and most celebrated gatherings in LGBTQ+ sports history. In this exclusive feature for QVegas Magazine, we dive into the history of the GSWS, its incredible growth, the importance of community engagement, and how Las Vegas is preparing to welcome the athletes and fans with open arms.

A Rich History of Inclusion and Pride

The origins of the Gay Softball World Series trace back to a single game in 1977 between teams from New York City and San Francisco. In those days, LGBTQ+ visibility in sports was limited, and the world was far from accepting. However, this game was more than just a sporting event—it symbolized the beginning of a movement. It was a safe space for LGBTQ+ athletes to gather, compete, and be themselves in an environment free from judgment or discrimination.

From that humble beginning, the GSWS has evolved into a multi-day tournament with participants representing 54 member associations in cities across the United States and Canada. These cities, from Boston to Vancouver, field teams that compete in local leagues throughout the year, qualifying for the prestigious World Series through a variety of means, including standings and local playoffs.

Speaking to Jeff Sloan, the current Commissioner of the GSWS, we get a glimpse into the passion and dedication that drives the event. "Our organization is not just about softball," Sloan emphasizes. "It's about community, camaraderie, and creating a space where LGBTQ+ individuals can come together and feel like they belong. The softball is just the free gift with purchase."

Indeed, the GSWS is more than just a tournament. It has become a celebration of diversity, inclusion, and resilience—values that are more important now than ever before.

Growth and Impact: From 2 Teams to 220

What started as a single game between two teams has transformed into a massive event. This year's tournament will feature over 220 teams from across North America, including nearly 6,000 attendees who are expected to descend upon Las Vegas for a week of games, celebrations, and unforgettable experiences.

Sloan reflects on this growth with pride: "It's truly incredible to see how far we've come. The fact that we've gone from just two teams in 1977 to 220 teams this year is a testament to the dedication of everyone involved. It's not just LGBTQ+ sports history—we're making American history."

The event is not just about softball; it's also about giving back to the community. Each year, the GSWS partners with local charities, particularly those focused on HIV/AIDS awareness, prevention, and care. Over the years, the organization has raised more than $400,000 for these causes, leaving a lasting impact on the communities that host the tournament.

"We take great pride in ensuring that we're not just coming to a city to play softball," says Sloan. "We want to leave a positive mark on the community. Our work with local charities allows us to do that, and it's something we'll continue to prioritize."

Las Vegas: The Perfect Stage for the GSWS

Las Vegas is no stranger to hosting world-class events, but the arrival of the GSWS marks a special occasion for the city's LGBTQ+ community. Known for its vibrant nightlife, inclusive atmosphere, and status as an entertainment mecca, Las Vegas is the ideal destination for an event of this scale.

"We're so excited to bring the Gay Softball World Series to Las Vegas," Sloan beams. "Vegas is such an iconic city, known for its entertainment and hospitality. Our participants and attendees are going to have an incredible time, both on and off the field."

One of the reasons Las Vegas was chosen as the host city is its commitment to inclusivity and diversity. Las Vegas has long been a haven for the LGBTQ+ community, with its numerous LGBTQ+ bars, events, and organizations that support the community. The city's thriving drag scene, including legendary clubs like Piranha Nightclub and Gypsy, has played a major role in creating a welcoming space for LGBTQ+ people.

"Las Vegas is an international destination for a reason," Sloan notes. "People from all over the world come here for the entertainment, the food, the nightlife—and we're excited to add the GSWS to that list of reasons."

The tournament will take place across seven different complexes in the Las Vegas metropolitan area, with championship games hosted at Shadow Rock Park. "This year's event has grown so large that we're using seven different complexes," Sloan explains. "But the real showstopper will be our Friday Night Lights event, where we showcase our undefeated teams under the lights. It's going to be electric."

Beyond the Diamond: GSWS Events and Celebrations

The opening ceremony on October 14th will take place at the Las Vegas Downtown Event Center, an open-air venue with a built-in stage, sound system, and lighting—perfect for the kind of spectacle the GSWS is known for. "The opening ceremony is one of our most cherished traditions," Sloan says. "Each city's team will arrive with their own shirt, and by the end of the night, they'll be trading shirts with players from other cities. It's a great way to break the ice and start building those connections."

Another exciting event planned for the week is the "RuPaul's Drag Race Live: GSWS Edition" at the Flamingo Showroom. Scheduled for October 15th, this special edition of the popular show will feature drag queens from the hit TV series, performing exclusively for GSWS participants and fans. It's the perfect blend of sports and entertainment, offering something for everyone.

The closing ceremony will be held at the internationally renowned Piranha Nightclub, featuring outdoor entertainment, lighting, and stage performances. "Piranha has been such a fantastic partner for us," Sloan shares. "Their venue is the perfect place to close out the week with a bang."

The Importance of Representation in Sports

The GSWS is more than just an athletic competition—it's a platform for visibility and representation within the LGBTQ+ community. The athletes who compete in this tournament come from all walks of life, bringing with them unique stories of resilience, strength, and triumph.

While softball is the centerpiece, Sloan emphasizes that the community and camaraderie built through the GSWS are just as important. "The relationships and friendships that are formed here are lasting," he explains. "We've seen countless marriages, lifelong friendships, and chosen families come out of this event. It's like a big family reunion."

The GSWS has also helped challenge stereotypes and change perceptions of LGBTQ+ athletes. Many of the players who compete at the tournament are elite athletes, competing at the highest level of amateur softball. But just as many are there to have fun, enjoy the sport, and be part of a supportive community.

"Our diversity is our strength," Sloan says. "We welcome players of all skill levels, from beginners to seasoned athletes. No matter where you come from, no matter what your background is, the GSWS is a place where everyone is welcome."

Looking Ahead: The Future of the GSWS

As the GSWS continues to grow and evolve, so too does its mission. Recently, the organization underwent a rebranding, moving from its original name—the North American Gay Amateur Athletic Alliance (NAGAAA)—to a more inclusive moniker: International Pride Softball (I Pride Softball).

"We listened to our members, and they told us that the word 'gay' didn't necessarily represent everyone in our community," Sloan explains. "We wanted a name that would be more inclusive, that would represent everyone under the LGBTQ+ umbrella. That's why we're now known as International Pride Softball. It's about making sure everyone feels welcome."

In addition to the name change, the GSWS is also exploring new ways to expand its reach and impact. With discussions underway about the possibility of changing the name of the tournament itself to better reflect its inclusive mission, Sloan and his team are committed to ensuring that the GSWS continues to be a place where all LGBTQ+ athletes feel welcome and celebrated.

How Las Vegas Locals Can Get Involved

For those in Las Vegas looking to get involved with the GSWS, there are plenty of opportunities. The organization is actively seeking volunteers to help with the tournament, and Sloan encourages locals to sign up and be part of the event.

"Volunteering is a great way to meet people and be involved in the event," Sloan says. "It's a world-class tournament, and we want the Las Vegas community to be part of it."

Additionally, the GSWS will be hosting several events that are open to the public, including the opening and closing ceremonies, as well as the Friday Night Lights event at Shadow Rock Park. Sloan invites the local LGBTQ+ community to come out, watch the games, and experience the excitement of the tournament.

"This is going to be one of the best events Las Vegas has ever seen," Sloan says with confidence. "The energy, the camaraderie, the passion—it's going to be electric, and we want everyone to be part of it."

Conclusion

The Gay Softball World Series is more than just a tournament—it's a celebration of LGBTQ+ pride, community, and athleticism. As the GSWS makes its way to Las Vegas, the city is ready to embrace the event with open arms, offering a week of exciting games, vibrant social events, and unforgettable memories. Whether you're an athlete, a fan, or a member of the Las Vegas community, this year's GSWS is an event you won't want to miss.

Sailing with Pride

Our OUTbound Adventures in France and Italy

There's something transformative about travel. It breaks the monotony of daily life and opens doors to new cultures, experiences, and connections. But when that travel is coupled with an inclusive, LGBTQ+ community, it becomes even more special. This year, we had the privilege of embarking on two unforgettable OUTbound cruises: one to France in April and another to Italy in September. Each journey was filled with personal milestones, historical revelations, and vibrant interactions that not only enriched our understanding of the world but also strengthened the bonds within our community.

For those who may not be familiar, OUTbound Travel offers cruises tailored to the LGBTQ+ community, providing a refined experience that emphasizes connection, culture, and inclusivity. These cruises are an alternative to the more common "party-centric" gay cruises, focusing instead on meaningful excursions, expert planning, and the chance to bond with fellow travelers over shared interests. From the moment we set sail, it was clear that this wasn't just a vacation—it was a journey that would leave a lasting impact.

The Hook: Discovering the Joy of OUTbound Cruises

Garrett: "My first experience with OUTbound was the Christmas cruise. I'd heard about LGBTQ+ cruises before but had hesitated to join, unsure of whether it would fit my travel style. That cruise changed everything. It wasn't just about the destinations—it was about the people, the camaraderie, and the seamless planning that took away all the stress. I was hooked. The OUTbound team really takes care of every detail, from logistics to excursions, leaving you free to enjoy the experience.

After that, I knew I had to bring Russ along for the next trip."

Russ: "Garrett has always been the extrovert, while I'm more of an introvert. But as soon as I joined him on the France cruise, I understood what he was talking about. OUTbound creates this inclusive environment where everyone—regardless of personality or background—feels welcome. Whether you're the shy guy sitting at the back or the life of the party, by the end of the cruise, you'll know everyone. That sense of community is what made these trips truly special for me."

France: A Journey Through History and Art

Our first adventure together this year took us to France, cruising from Paris up the Seine to Normandy and back. France is a country steeped in history, art, and culture, and our OUTbound cruise made sure we experienced it all. From the grandeur of the Eiffel Tower to the reflective shores of Normandy, every stop on our journey offered something unique and unforgettable.

Garrett: "Growing up, I used to visit the Las Vegas Strip and pretend I was traveling the world, marveling at the replicas of iconic landmarks like the Eiffel Tower and the Colosseum. Being able to finally see the real thing in Europe was a dream come true. One of the highlights for me on the Paris cruise was visiting Monet's Garden. I'd seen pictures of it, of course, but nothing compares to standing there in person, surrounded by the same vibrant colors and natural beauty that inspired his masterpieces."

Russ: "For me, visiting the Normandy Beaches was particularly poignant. Both of my grandfathers served in World War II, and while I don't think they were in Normandy, standing there brought home the magnitude of that history. Seeing the remnants of the war—the bunkers, the graves—it was a reminder of how much has changed and how much we still have to fight for. The entire cruise was filled with these kinds of experiences—moments that made you stop, reflect, and appreciate the journey."

Garrett: "And let's not forget Versailles! The scale of it—the opulent architecture, the sprawling gardens, the endless halls filled with art—was mind-blowing. It's one of those places you can't believe exists until you see it with your own eyes."

Russ: "Exactly. And while we shared most of these excursions together, there was also room for personal exploration. OUTbound gives you the flexibility to tailor your experience. One day, Garrett might be exploring the Louvre while I'm enjoying a quiet moment at a café. It's the perfect balance of structured activities and personal freedom."

Italy: Culture, Cuisine, and Camaraderie

If France was about history and art, Italy was about indulgence and culture. Our cruise in September took us from Rome to Venice, with stops in Murano, Burano, Croatia, and even Montenegro. Italy is a country where every meal is a masterpiece, every street is a gallery, and every day feels like a celebration.

Garrett: "Venice was the highlight for me. The canals, the gondolas, the architecture—it was like stepping into a postcard. We visited Murano, famous for its glass blowing, and Burano, known for its colorful houses and lace-making. It was the kind of place you see in travel magazines and dream of visiting, and there we were, experiencing it firsthand."

Russ: "What stood out for me was the sense of connection we built, not just with each other but with the other travelers. OUTbound river cruises typically have 100 people on board, and by the end of the trip, you've made lasting friendships. Sea cruises can have 300-500 on board. One night, we were enjoying dinner in Sorrento, and the next, we were on the deck of the ship, laughing with new friends while watching the sunset over the Mediterranean. It's these shared moments that make the OUTbound experience so special."

Russ: "And of course, there's the food. Every meal felt like a celebration of Italian culture, from the fresh pasta and seafood to the locally sourced olive oil and wine. OUTbound makes sure that the culinary experiences are as memorable as the excursions. One afternoon in France we were dining at a seaside restaurant in Normandy, and the next trip, we were sipping Limoncello in Sorrento. It doesn't get much better than that."

Garrett: "The excursions in Italy were equally incredible. We visited the ruins of Pompeii, explored the Amalfi Coast, and even took a day trip to Capri. But what really made the trip special was the sense of community on board. By the time we docked in Venice at the end of the cruise, it felt like we were saying goodbye to family."

The OUTbound Difference: More Than Just a Cruise

One of the things that sets OUTbound apart from other LGBTQ+ cruises is the attention to detail. Every excursion is carefully curated to offer both cultural depth and personal connection. Whether you're learning about ancient civilizations at the Colosseum or watching a drag show at sea with performers like Paige Turner and Chase Brown, OUTbound ensures that every aspect of your trip is memorable.

Garrett: "The entertainment on board was top-notch. We had Paige Turner and Chase Brown with us, as well as some incredible talent from Vegas and beyond. Miss Bouvée, who we discovered on the Italy cruise, blew us away with her performances. And it wasn't just the headliners—the ship's onboard entertainment was equally impressive, from the singers and dancers to the crew who made every day feel like a celebration."

Russ: "What also stands out is the sense of inclusion. OUTbound really goes out of its way to make sure everyone feels welcome, regardless of age, gender, or orientation. We had gay, lesbian, bisexual, transgender, and queer travelers on board, and it felt like every letter of the LGBTQ+ acronym was represented. It's a rare thing to find such a diverse group of people coming together and genuinely enjoying each other's company."

Garrett: "And it's not just about what happens on the ship. OUTbound's excursions are designed to give you a deeper understanding of the places you visit. In Paris, we learned about the city's rich LGBTQ+ history, from the lives of artists like Leonardo da Vinci to the struggles and triumphs of the queer community in France. In Italy, we explored the influence of religion on architecture and society, visiting countless basilicas and churches that have shaped the country's history."

Looking Ahead: Join Us in Greece!

As we look back on our OUTbound adventures in France and Italy, we're filled with gratitude for the experiences we've shared and the friendships we've made. These cruises have given us the chance to see the world through a different lens—to learn, to grow, and to connect with fellow travelers in a way that's both meaningful and fun.

And now, we're excited to invite you to join us on our next adventure: an OUTbound cruise to Greece in September 2025! We'll be sailing through the stunning Mediterranean, exploring ancient ruins, breathtaking coastlines, and iconic Greek islands like Santorini, Mykonos, and Athens. Whether you're a seasoned traveler or new to cruising, this trip promises to be an unforgettable journey through one of the most beautiful regions in the world.

You can start planning your dream trip today without the stress of upfront costs. OUTbound offers interest-free payment plans and a range of accommodations, from affordable cabins to luxurious suites, ensuring there's something for every budget. And with a 10% discount for QVegas readers using the code "QVEGAS," there's never been a better time to book.

We can't wait to sail with you in Greece—let's make memories together that will last a lifetime.
