Set on the 55th floor high above the Las Vegas Strip, this ghostly affair features RuPaul's Drag Race Superstar Coco Montrese, as well as a Halloween costume contest, GoGo dancers, and celebrity female impersonators including Kenneth Blake as Elvira, and Jessie Tyler as Taylor Swift.

Additionally, partygoers can compete in different costume categories for their chance to win cash prizes. The categories are Best Over-the-Top Drag, Best Duo, Sexiest, Scariest, and Best Impersonator.

"We are honored to host HalloQween and are thrilled to welcome the LGBTQ+ community to Palms Casino Resort," notes Cynthia Kiser Murphey, general manager of Palms Casino Resort. "This high-energy and engaging event will offer a fabulous experience for both locals and our guests. We look forward to celebrating with this vibrant community together."

Palms has teamed up with Las Vegas LGBTQ+ expert Garrett Pattiani for HalloQween. His experience incorporates the local community and beyond. "I am so excited to be working with Palms to create this amazing event. It's something I have dreamed of for a very long time," says Pattiani. "It makes a huge impact for our community to be seen and celebrated in such a big way. Locals and tourists have another mainstream hotel embracing and celebrating with us. October is Global Diversity Awareness Month

Palms Casino Resort is making history as the first resort in Las Vegas fully owned and operated by a Native American Tribe.

October has been a busy month for the Las Vegas LGBTQ+ community. In addition to Pride month in Las Vegas and LGBTQ History Month, the wake of COVID shutdowns shifted major fundraising events like The Center's Honorary and Aid for AIDS of Nevada's Black & White Party to October, But October is also

Global Diversity Awareness Month where we pay tribute to the diverse minds and beliefs held by all cultures around the world. We live in a multicultural society and embracing the values of various cultures only strengthens our understanding and appreciation of the world. This week we're shining a spotlight on Palms Casino & Resort.

From Then to Now

A look at the resilience and determination of the Yuhaaviatam to remain self-sufficient and sovereign.

1700s-1820s

Spanish missionaries and military encounter the Yuhaaviatam (one clan of the Maara'yam), which they call "Serrano" or "highlander." Many Maara'yam are forced into the mission system as slave labor for Spain.

1880s

Native American boarding schools are established in the U. S. with the primary objective of "civilizing" or assimilating Native American children and youth into Euro-American culture, while destroying and vilifying Native American culture.

Early to Mid-1900s

Tribe adapts and adjusts to reservation life. U.S. government continues to dictate what the Tribe can and cannot do.

1966

Articles of Association are adopted by San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.

1975

President Ford signs the Indian Self-Determination and Education Assistance Act, a federal policy of Indian self-determination, first declared by President Nixon.

CREATION

Since Time Immemorial

Maara'yam people inhabit the mountains, valleys and deserts of Southern California.

1850s-1860s

American settlers invade Serrano territory. CA governor instructs militias to exterminate Native people. Yuhaaviatam are killed and chased out of their territory.

TREATY MAKING

1866

Raids and bloodshed decimate the Tribe. Kiika' Santos Manuel makes a decision to courageously bring the remnant of his people from the mountains to safety on the valley floor.

THE NEW DEAL

1891

U.S. government passes the Act for Relief of Mission Indians, which recognizes the Tribe as a sovereign nation and establishes the Reservation. The Tribe chooses the name San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.

1934

Indian Reorganization Act is enacted by U.S. Congress, aimed at decreasing federal control of American Indian affairs and increasing Indian self-government and responsibility.

ASSIMILATION

1970

In address to Congress regarding the federal policy of terminating relationships with tribes, President Nixon states, "This policy of forced termination is wrong." He then outlines a policy of self-determination rather than termination.

The San Manuel Gaming and Hospitality Authority is a governmental instrumentality of the San Manuel Band of Mission Indians, a federally recognized Indian tribe, created for the purpose of independently carrying out the investment in, and ownership and management of, gaming and hospitality businesses outside of the San Manuel Reservation.

With the purchase of the Palms from Station Casinos last year, Palms has re-opened with a strong diversity focus. In addition to tribal leadership, women, people of color, and LGBTQ individuals are also among the ranks of leadership. This month, Palms also hosted a Pride Month LGBTQ+ Pool Party at the property's SOAK pool, and the legendary Ghostbar will host HalloQween on October 30th, featuring RuPaul's Drag Race Coco Montrese, Kenneth Blake, Jessie Tyler, a special appearance by the Sanderson Sisters. Historically, the Palms has been a strong partner with the Las Vegas LGBTQ+ community and we are delighted to see that tradition and commitment continue under the new ownership.

San Manuel Indian Bingo opens.

1978

Indian gaming movement begins with Seminole Tribe of Florida.

1987

California v. Cabazon: U.S. Supreme Court landmark decision affirms right of tribal governments to conduct gaming on their lands.

1990s-2000s

Tribe takes an active role in passing Proposition 5 and Proposition 1A.

1998

Proposition 5 is supported by 63 percent of voters in favor of gaming by Indian tribes in California. A lawsuit by a labor union causes the measure to be struck down by California Supreme Court.

2005

New San Manuel Indian Bingo and Casino opens.

Residence Inn by Marriott opens in Washington, DC. The project is from the Four Fires intertribal economic partnership, which includes San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.

2017

Tribe transforms bingo hall into Rockin' Casino area.

2021

San Manuel Casino becomes Yaamava' Resort & Casino at San Manuel.

Yaamava' expansion project opens including gaming spaces, new restaurants, lounges and hotel tower, as well as retail, spa and pool amenities.

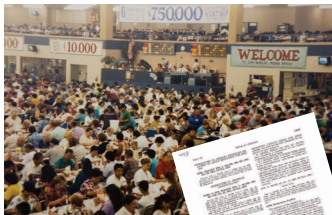

2019

San Manuel Gaming and Hospitality Authority forms to explore economic growth opportunities.

SELF-DETERMINATION

1988

Indian Gaming Regulatory Act passes, creating statutory framework for Indian gaming.

1994

San Manuel Indian Bingo adds gaming operations and advances goal of economic self-sufficiency.

1980s

SMBMI seeks new business opportunities to strengthen sovereignty and journey towards self-sufficiency.

2006

San Manuel Band of Mission Indians breaks ground on San Manuel Village in Highland, CA, a mixed-use, off-reservation, commercial development.

2007

Residence Inn by Marriott opens in Sacramento, CA. The project is from the Three Fires intertribal economic partnership, which includes San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.

2008

Hampton Inn and Suites Hotel opened in Highland, CA, at San Manuel Village, a development of the San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.

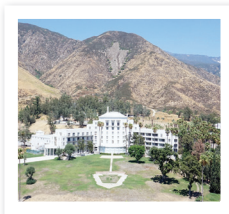

2000

Proposition 1A, supported by 65 percent of California voters, changes the state constitution and provides exclusive right to Indian tribes to operate a limited scope of casino-style gaming on Indian lands, in accordance with federal law.

STRENGTHENING OUR FUTURE

2018

Opening of the Autograph Collection, The Draftsman Hotel, in Charlottesville, VA, a joint venture that includes the San Manuel Band of Mission Indians.

2016

SMBMI acquires sacred lands in San Bernardino Mountains with purchase of Arrowhead Springs Hotel.

2022

San Manuel Gaming and Hospitality Authority opens the Palms Casino Resort in Las Vegas.
