The STRAT Theater opened its doors to ROUGE in May 2022. This scintillating topless spectacular and immersive sensual experience, continues to ignite the stage.

An Immersive Sensual Journey

ROUGE isn't just a show; it's a seductive journey into the world of adult adventure designed to bring fantasies to life. With a dash of extreme humor, the full-scale erotic production sets the stage on fire and leaves audiences feeling just a little bit naughtier than when they entered the theater.

The provocative cast, comprised of 18 stunningly gorgeous women and men, tantalized the senses, pleasing and teasing the inner voyeur in all of us. Behind this alluring production was the creative genius, Hanoch Rosènn, the mastermind behind hit shows like Extravaganza and WOW – The Vegas Spectacular. Rosènn ingeniously combined "sexpertise" with a mesmerizing array of talent, including acrobats, aerialists, dancers, contortionists, comedians, and hand balancers, all while transporting audiences into a fully immersive sensual experience.

Rosènn expressed his excitement about bringing ROUGE to The STRAT, stating, "The show would take the audience on a journey where each scene was a world onto itself - rich with costumes, music, props, scenery, cutting-edge video design, lighting, and sound, designed to immerse you into your deepest fantasy. We assembled a cast of some of the top, internationally award-winning men and women who are renowned for their artistry."

Top Talent in the Creative Team

ROUGE boasted an impressive Creative Team, including choreographer Nathan J. Clarke, known for his work as Creative Director and Choreographer for The Voice UK and collaborations with renowned artists like Annie Lennox, Rihanna, Queen, and Robbie Williams. Lighting Designer Charles Morrison, acclaimed for his work on HBO Max's "Finding Magic Mike," designed an enchanting world within The STRAT Theater. The show's Costume Designer, Ella Kolesnik, who had previously worked on "Swan Lake Rock Opera," created an alluring visual experience, while Video Designer Shai Bonder, lead video designer for Eurovision 2019, contributed to the show's mesmerizing visual elements.

Musical Director Gur Murad, who had worked on shows like WOW and Extravaganza, was in charge of the show's captivating soundtrack. Award-winning Set Designer Michael Kramenko brought his expertise to ROUGE, and Resident & Artistic Director Sheer Davidai, known for his work on WOW and Extravaganza, contributed his artistic vision to the production. The Music Planner, Kobi Ben Atar, and Artistic Advisor Yaniv Hadad rounded out this stellar creative ensemble.

A Must-Visit Entertainment Destination

ROUGE has been a significant addition to The STRAT's transformation into a must-visit entertainment destination in Las Vegas. Brad Goldberg, Chief Marketing Officer of Golden Entertainment, Inc., the parent company of The STRAT Hotel, Casino & SkyPod, shared his enthusiasm, stating, "ROUGE continues the incredible transformation of The STRAT to, what has become, a must-visit entertainment destination."

Adam Steck of SPI Entertainment, a global theatrical production company, echoed this sentiment, adding, "Adding this unique and sensual late-night show was the perfect production to round out our eclectic and diverse entertainment offerings for our state-of-the-art theater."

A World of Decadence and Sensuality

Whether it's a journey to ancient Rome, the Palace of Versailles, or modern-day Las Vegas, ROUGE promises to immerse its audience into a world of decadence, celebration, and sensuality. This provocative show continues to be an exciting addition to the vibrant entertainment scene in Las Vegas, offering a unique blend of allure, humor, and artistic talent.

As Las Vegas continues to evolve as the ultimate entertainment capital, ROUGE at The STRAT Theater became a must-see attraction for those seeking a truly unforgettable night out on the town. Don't miss the opportunity to experience the seduction, beauty, and desire that ROUGE brought to life on the Las Vegas stage.

The Center Expands Clinic to Prominent New Location on Las Vegas Boulevard

In a significant move to expand its reach and accessibility, the LGBTQ+ Community Center of Southern Nevada, known for its dedicated service to the LGBTQ+ community and others who have been marginalized in healthcare, is expanding to a new, more prominent location. The clinic now grows beyond the Maryland location to the bustling intersection of Charleston and Las Vegas Boulevard.

The new address, officially 921 South Las Vegas Boulevard, marks a notable shift for the clinic from the side entrance of the Center to one of the most visible areas of Las Vegas. This move is not just an additional location; it symbolizes the clinic's growth and its commitment to being an accessible healthcare hub for all, particularly for those who have historically faced barriers in accessing care.

The new facility, formerly known as the Wolfson Medical Clinic, is strategically positioned on the northeast corner of Charleston and Las Vegas Boulevard. This prime location is expected to increase visibility and ease of access for patients. What makes this move even more strategic is that the building is already outfitted for medical use, promising a swift transition.

The clinic's leadership has expressed optimism about the move, hoping to commence operations in the new building by March 1st. This relocation is seen as the first step in a broader plan to expand services throughout the valley, eliminating distance as a barrier to accessing quality healthcare.

In a statement, Dr. Jerry Cade, medical director for the clinic emphasized their commitment to no-barrier healthcare, stating, "We started with a focus on the LGBTQ+ community, but our mission is to serve anyone who's been left out of healthcare. We want to fix that, and this move is a big step in that direction."

The Center's move to 921 Las Vegas Boulevard is more than just a change of address; it's a significant leap towards making healthcare more accessible and inclusive for all residents of Las Vegas and the surrounding areas.
